Open meetings bill is nearing passage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Agreement on a bill to require all government units to hold open meetings appeared certain today after House and Senate conferees resolved their differences.

Wednesday conferees tentatively agreed that those voting yes and no would be named so the public would know how each person voted.

The conference committee also reached tentative agreement that arrest records of persons not charged with a crime after being arrested or those against whom charges were dismissed without prosecution could not be made available for public inspection.

The revised version of the bill was being drafted Wednesday night, and the committee was expected to take action today before sending the bill back to both houses for approval of the changes.

Meanwhile House and Senate conferees have been working to resolve differences in the reorganization bill in unofficial meetings. The House defeated Tuesday the bill to reorganize the executive branch.

An official conference committee is expected to be called to reconsider the bill. As yet the Senate has not granted the House request for that conference, although members from both houses have been working on the bill.

In a night session Wednesday the Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill removing the $50,000 limit on damages that could be awarded in wrongful death suits.

Included in the bill is language saying a jury shall award damages for wrongful death that will "fairly compensate" for the loss of the person killed.

Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, led unsuccessful opposition to the bill saying it could result in astronomical awards that could cause insurance companies to increase their rates.

The Senate defeated a bill that would have required candidates to be listed in order of filing instead of being alternately listed on paper ballots.

Two major tax bills were acted upon Wednesday.

The governor signed into law a bill allowing the governing bodies of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City to levy a half-cent sales tax for transportation. Any other city with less than 500 persons could levy the tax on a public vote.

About $19 million is expected to be raised annually in St. Louis city and county and $7 million is expected to be earned from the tax in Kansas City.

"The measure is designed to insure continued operation of public systems in in the Kansas City and St. Louis areas, as well as to provide for other transportation needs as determined by local governments," Gov. Christopher S. Bond said. "It is my sincere hope that this measure will provide improved services and reduce fares, particularly in the St. Louis area."

The bill enables financing of the Bi-State Bus System in St. Louis and the Kansas City Area Transportation Authority. The tax would remain in effect until Dec. 31, 1975.

Also sent to the governor was a bill to make sure the ATA sales tax, already in effect, continues at least through Sept. 30, 1975. Sponsors said the second bill was needed in case the St. Louis tax ended up in a court battle, thereby affecting Kansas City which is included in the bill.

In a night session, the Senate approved House amendments to a park levy bill and that, too, goes to the governor.

The bill allows St. Louis

Nixon freezes prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has frozen all consumer prices for 60 days, jolting an inflation-plagued economy with a surprise shock treatment while buying time to build a tougher wage-price control system.

Wages were not frozen by the President. Neither were rents, interest and dividends or raw agricultural products at the farm level.

But Nixon told the nation in a television-radio address Wednesday night that all other prices paid for goods and services during the next two months cannot exceed prices that prevailed in the June 1-8 base period.

Congressional action is required for proposed export controls and other supporting elements of the President's fourth attempt in two years to curb inflationary pressures. But the price freeze went into effect Wednesday night when he signed an executive order.

Unless lifted sooner, the freeze expires Aug. 12. By then, Nixon said, he will have ready "a new and more effective system of controls" to replace Phase 3—a limited system which his economic advisers admitted was a failure.

Phase 4 controls, Nixon said, "will involve tighter standards and more mandatory compliance procedures than under Phase 3" and will include special measures to stabilize retail food and gasoline prices.

Members of Congress had mixed reactions to the President's moves.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, voiced some reservations but said he would withdraw for 90 days his pending Senate amendment to freeze wages, prices and consumer interest rates.

Republicans generally supported the President. "Right on target," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Democrats were less enthusiastic. "I'm fearful that it may not be broad enough," said House Speaker Carl Albert.

Leading economists were split, too.

"Too little, too late, too complicated, too political," said noted economist Eliot Janeway.

"It's a definite improvement," said top University of Pennsylvania economist, Dr. Lawrence R. Klein.

Nixon told the nation in his 15-minute address from the Oval Office that the economy is strong—"we are in the middle of one of the biggest, strongest booms in our history."

But for a variety of reasons, he said, "prices are going up at unacceptably high rates and the great part of this increase is due to rising food prices."

He then outlined his price freeze as part of what he called "bold yet sensible policies to meet our temporary problems." Other elements of the President's program include:

No gas

W. H. Blumenberg, owner of Anniston's only service station, sits on a farm gate he is building while he talks with friends about the gas shortage that has forced him to close the station's dry pumps. (Daily Standard photo by Tim Ludwig)

Bomb threat is hoax

MARSTON — A bomb threat from an anonymous telephone caller this morning at Associated Electrical Cooperative in St. Jude Industrial Park proved to be a hoax following evacuation of the building and a thorough search of the power plant.

Charlie Price, power plant manager, said there were no known reasons or explanations to account for the call. "We have had no incidents at all in the past few weeks, no problems, nobody has been fired and there is absolutely no reason I can come up with," he said.

All employes not essential to keep the plant in operation were immediately sent home. A search was made of the entire plant by supervisory employes and nothing was found, Price said.

Control operator Jerry Neighbors received the call at 7:40 a.m. He reported the caller first asked for Price and, when told Price had not arrived, the caller asked for Bill Jerome. When the caller was told Jerome was not in, Neighbors reported he then said he had something important to tell them.

The caller was requested to call back in about 10 minutes when Price and Jerome were expected.

The caller reportedly said, "No, I don't want to call back. It might be a good idea to evacuate the plant. There might be a bomb in it," and then he said, "I have to go," and hung up.

Price said employes sent home today would report back to work Friday.

Anniston's only station out of gas

By TIM LUDWIG

ANNISTON— The story of W.H. Blumenberg is not unique in this time of gas shortages and fuel cutbacks to independent service station owners, but it is of vital interest to him and to many residents of Anniston. Blumenberg is, or at least was until a week ago, the owner and operator of Anniston's only service station.

The fuel shortage hadn't made much difference in Anniston until about three weeks ago. Then Blumenberg's regular pumps went dry. At that time, his contract with MFA Oil Co. had just expired, and neither they nor any other dealers would take on more customers.

Most farmers in the Anniston area run their machinery on diesel fuel, but some needed gasoline for special operations. They had to turn to Blumenberg's dwindling supply of ethyl to fuel their equipment. Two weeks later, that ran out too, and those farmers who did not have diesel machines were forced to look elsewhere for their much-needed fuel.

Blumenberg has operated his station for 18 years in Anniston. During those years, he has been almost the sole supplier for that town's cars and tractors. Now, all there is to do is sit at the station talking to friends about the gas situation while he waits for a promised call from a possible new supplier.

Part of this waiting time Blumenberg spends out where the cars used to gas up, building gates for his Anniston home and a farm he and his wife keep in Kentucky.

The shady, outdoor workshop is now a forum for ideas and complaints about the gas shortage. Blumenberg tells his friends about his hopes for a quick end to the dry tanks, since he has contacted former Governor Warren E. Hearnes and Rep. Bill D. Burlison about the problem.

He says they are both trying to help get Anniston's gas pumps flowing again, but right now he's still waiting for that phone call that will tell him and Anniston's residents that gasoline is on the way.

Landfill site chosen

BLOOMFIELD— The city of Bloomfield has signed a contract with Lemmons Brother's Company of Dexter for use of their 75-acre landfill site one and one half miles north of Dexter.

Bloomfield is meeting a state law that requires a sanitary landfill open and in operation by July 1. After this time, no open pit dumping will be allowed.

The city has agreed to pay a rate of $1.94 per person in the city which has a total population of 1,584 persons. This amounts to a total of $3,072.96. The Bloomfield trash truck will also be required to pay a gate fee of $4 per load.

These costs will be paid from the city's revenue sharing funds. Bloomfield is one of the few cities that does not charge for trash pickup.

Man in underwear picked up

Police picked up an elderly man about 8:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Dairy Queen restaurant, 2021 E. Malone, after he was seen walking around the building in his underwear.

Police said he was taken back to his family which lives on Reuben Street.

At 7 a.m. today the man was found sleeping on a neighbor's porch. He told police he had forgotten where he lived. He was taken home again by officers.

Crash injures 2

Two persons were slightly injured in an accident at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 60 four miles west of Sikeston after a heavy rain. The car in the bottom picture, driven east by Otis Kyle of Bloomfield, hit a patch of water and struck the station wagon, which was driven west by Golden Koontz of Troy, Ohio. Koontz and a passenger, Geraldine Koontz, were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

1 killed, 13 hurt

One person was killed and 13 injured Wednesday in six area traffic accidents, the highway patrol reported today.

Robert Lee Taylor, 29, of Kennett died in a three- car crash at 7:55 p.m. three miles east of Kennett on Highway 84.

The accident occurred when a van driven by Claude Melvin Elliot, 67, of Kennett pulled from a side road into the path of Taylor's westbound auto. The right front of the Taylor car struck the left rear of the Elliot vehicle, which then struck a bridge railing and stopped in the westbound lane.

Taylor's auto then crossed into the path of an eastbound car driven by Alice Fay Bridges, 19, of Hayti. The front end of the Bridges car struck the left side of the Taylor car and continued on to strike the bridge railing.

Elliot received internal injuries and bruises. Also injured in the Elliot van were Terry James Lytle, 11, of Kennett, cuts and bruises, and Randy Lytle, 8, of Kennett, broken ankle.

The Birdges woman suffered a broken leg and bruises, and a passenger, Doyle Wayne Bridges, received cuts and bruises.

All five of the injured were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Paul Plafcan, 67, of St. Louis received severe cuts at 1:30 p.m. on Interstate 55 one mile south of Miner when the car in which he was a passenger, parked on the shoulder during a heavy rain, was struck from behind by a car driven by Shirley Grassel, 35, of Florissant.

The driver of the parked car, Daryl Young, 18, of Montrose, Iowa, received facial cuts. Both he and Plafcan were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Pamela Dawn Vandiver, 16, of Oak Ridge received bruises on the head at 6:30 p.m. on Route D two miles north of Jackson when she ran off the road and overturned. She was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Two persons were slightly injured in a two- car collision at 1:15 p.m. four miles west of Sikeston on Highway 60.

FLAG DAY,
JUNE 14

President Woodrow Wilson's eloquent address on Flag Day, June 14, 1917 is an effective reminder to all of the significance of Old Glory:

"We meet to celebrate Flag Day because this flag which we honor and under which we serve is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation. It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation. The choice is ours. It floats in majestic silence above the hosts that execute those choices whether in peace or war. And yet, though silent, it speaks to us — speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us and of the records they wrote upon it. We celebrate the day of its birth, and from its birth until now it has witnessed a great history, has floated on high the symbol of great events, of a great plan of life worked out by a great people ..."

The American desire to maintain a high standard of living will require that all Americans make their work count for more, Washington publisher Austin H. Kiplinger has told leaders of American industry. A National Association of Manufacturers editorial says Mr. Kiplinger asserted that "we would have to improve our productivity in order to warrant the rate we pay our labor and the prices we put on our products and services." Pulitzer prize winning financial columnist Joseph A. Livingston, speaking on the same panel, expressed concern that the American appetite for goods and materials has vastly increased our imports while exports have not increased on the same scale. This points up the fact that all Americans should concentrate on making bigger and better productivity gains in the year 1973.

Clean houses seldom burn, and clean ranges and furnaces seldom set fire to houses. High on the list of causes of home fires, reports the National Fire Protection Association, is dirty, defective heating and cooking equipment. In Spring Clean-Up activities, have your heating and cooking equipment serviced and repaired; make sure the chimney is clean and tight; remove grease from the kitchen exhaust fan system; and make sure any room heaters fueled with kerosene or oil are clean and in sound working condition before they are used at vacation camps or put away until next Winter.

A MAN'S (NEXT)
WORLD, TOO?

Pollsters in Germany recently asked the searching question: "If you came back to earth for a second life would you rather be a man or a woman?"

A surprising 26 per cent of the women queried said they would rather be a man the second time around, 13 per cent were indifferent and 61 per cent said they were glad to be girls.

Only 8 per cent of the men said they would prefer to be of the fair sex if they had the choice, 4 per cent had no opinion one way or the other while an overwhelming 88 per cent were glad to be men.

EAGLETON FOR SENATOR

With the official announcement last week by former Governor Hearnes that he will support and work for the re-election of Tom Eagleton as United States Senator, the Democratic party of Missouri seems to be headed toward a unification of purpose that will take that fine young man back to Washington for another six years.

Earlier, there had been vague rumors that Hearnes might oppose Eagleton for the nomination. That would have been regrettable, and probably disastrous for the party in Missouri, and perhaps for whoever won the nomination.

The Appeal editor, without reservations, endorses Senator Eagleton.

Not in our time has Missouri had a young official who has made a more outstanding record in his first term as a U. S. Senator.

With this top record back of him and with his popularity throughout the United States, as well as in Missouri, he has greater influence in national affairs than any other first term U. S. Senator we can recall.

Missouri and the nation will be the heavy loser if Tom Eagleton is not returned to the Senate.

Criminal violations of the antitrust laws should be taken out of the petty cash category.

That would appear to be the viewpoint of the nation's independent business people, as voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, they vote support for S. B. 782. This proposed legislation, introduced by Senator John Tunney (D) of California and Senator Edward Gurney (R) of Florida would raise the maximum fine that could be assessed.

Instead of the present $50,000 limit, the bill provides for a maximum fine of $100,000 for guilty individuals and $500,000 for corporations.

It is held that the present $50,000 fine limit, adopted in 1955 no longer serves as an effective deterrent.

The vote shows 57 per cent support this new limit, 27 per cent opposed, with 16 per cent undecided. Only in Alaska and Wyoming did the proposal fail to get a majority.

In Missouri the vote was 55 supporting this measure with 28 per cent opposed and 17 per cent undecided.

The merry month of May was apparently not very merry for the nation's independent business firms as the Labor Department agents turned harsher in the enforcement of the regulations that were drawn up from the Occupational Safety and Health law.

This is indicated by the continuous field survey of the National Federation of Independent Business which shows that while the percentage of respondents reporting an inspection during May held to the year long average of about 6 per cent per month, the increase in assessments levied jumped 66 per cent over the first quarter of the year.

On a national average 41 per cent of the inspected enterprises were held in violation of OSHA rules as drawn up by the Labor Department, and 30 per cent were assessed. In the first quarter of the year 33 per cent were found in violation, but only 18 per cent were assessed.

The assessments include both the fines levied and the cost of complying with the on the spot edicts of the Labor Department agents.

May was also a month unmerry for independent retailers as the agents started apparently concentrating on this segment of the business world.

The NFIB survey results show that independent retailers found in violation incurred an average bill of $6,436, topping independent wholesalers whose average cost was $4,254, manufacturers with an average cost of $5,994, and service firms with an average cost of $3,729.

Independent transportation firms were hit the hardest with an average cost of $12,000 followed by construction firms with $6,820.

The costs levied in May against retail establishments is a more than 300 per cent increase over the first quarter of the year. Many minor items go into these assements, such as failure to have an OSHA poster on display, not providing separate toilet facilities for men and women in the very smallest stores, not having coat hooks in the toilets, or having stair railings that are not the prescribed 34 inches off the steps.

Independent business people, faced with the regulations that have been issued, and are continually being issued by the Labor Department under the Occupational Safety and Health act are more and more reaching a viewpoint that in back of many regulations there is a hidden profit motive with some segments of the economy seeking to reap dividends out of the regulations.

A Massachusetts manufacturer expresses this opinion quite bluntly saying, "In the lighting field there is pressure for OSHA to adopt ANSI standards and enforce minimum light levels contained therein. The ANSI standards are largely written by the IES which is primarily supported and directed by the large power and light companies along with fixture and lamp manufacturers. Thus their promotional efforts are now being adopted and given force of law when in fact they may be unnecessary or irrelevant to safety. To the extent this same procedure of adopting and legalizing standards which are primarily promotional gimmicks of various industries - heating and ventilating, plumbing, et cetera - OSHA is building into the American economy extra costs which will contribute to further depreciation of the dollar and America's power to compete. Safety is one thing; over-protection may prove to be a dangerous something else."

A Texas newspaper publisher even goes further, alleging that the enforcement of OSHA is accompanied by fraud and conspiracy saying, "We hope such organizations as NFIB aren't too late with too little to offset the horrifying damages being afflicted by union- dominated Washington and conglomerate cooperation against one of the nation's few remaining domains of integrity, patriotism and enterprise - the small and medium sized businesses of the nation. The OSHA's should be answered by court action and indictments where fraud and conspiracy are shown."

The owner of an Iowa hardware store says, "I would like to urge the Federation to continue to work hard to alleviate the situation we are in concerning the OSHA law. More than that, however, I think the law as it now stands is too impractical even for large businesses to follow. The writing of the regulations should be changed, even more than who they should include."

An Illinois metal fabricator reports, "It is my recommendation that small companies (5 or less employees) be exempt from OSHA regulations due to the fact that most of us can not totally meet the requirements and when inspected will then be forced to lay off our employees and perform what work we, as owner's, can handle. My margin of profit at the present time does not allow for a lot of renovations in my equipment and building."

A partner in a Colorado CPA firm says, "We feel that the legislation which empowers the penalties set up under OSHA is the worst piece of legislation that was ever written, because penalties may be imposed against the businessman without a hearing or prior warning. Inspectors have full right to come onto a businessman's premises, make an inspection and levy fines without even a trial or a hearing to establish the businessman's guilt, whether it be intentional or just an oversight. The businessman has no defense against these people other than spending much time and many dollars to get a hearing in a district court. To the small businessman OSHA is almost an impossibility to live with because the law is written so as to take an attorney to interpret it and even the attorneys are not sure in some instances what would be necessary for the businessman to come into compliance. We feel that appropriate legislation should be enacted to give the businessman the right to call for inspections for compliance without penalties and, after these inspections, be given a reasonable length of time to come into compliance with the law; thus the businessman will be able to find out in what areas he is not in compliance and come into compliance without having to go through court to get injunctive relief."

While undoubtedly some of the stories circulating concerning the alleged gestapo tactics of Labor Department safety and health inspectors are magnified, there appears to be enough substance to create fear in the independent business community.

A Washington state jeweler comments, "I would like to know more about the Occupational Safety and Health Act. We have heard some weird stories of fines being levied for oddball infractions of the act."

BATTLE OF THE BUDGET

By monopolizing nearly all of the attention of the press and the public which is normally directed toward events in Washington, the Watergate charges and sensationalism may make it much more difficult to hold the line on federal expenditure this year. Sound- thinking citizens therefore need to redouble their efforts to keep the public informed and active with regard to the battle of the budget, so that it will not be lost by default.

Past and present experience clearly shows that when Congress and the bureaucrats are left mostly to themselves, with little or no pressure from public opinion, more and more

Earlier this year, a budget deficit of nearly $13 billion was anticipated for the coming fiscal year. But on May 22 Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent announced that the expected deficit for fiscal 1974 would be "less than $4 billion," provided Congress did not authorize more spending and appropriate more money than the present budget calls for.

Many in Congress, especially Senators, are doing exactly that. For instance, there is legislation to extend the Emergency Employment Assistance Act, which would cost no less than $12.5 billion during the next fiscal year alone. The budget provides for no such extension, on the grounds that unemployment is dropping and that state and local governments now have greatly increased financial resources to deal with unemployment in areas where it remains severe. Bills like this should be defeated and Presidential vetoes of them upheld.

Inside Labor

Chuck Colson's Fellow: Nixon Counting on 'Pete' to Swing Hard Hats Behind White House in Crisis

WASHINGTON— Deep inside the eeriness of this hyperthyroid city there's a power struggle between one of President Nixon's itinerant surrogates, Peter Brennan, and labor chief Goerge Meany. It is final combat for influence inside American labor, inside the hard- hat constituency, inside the vast "new (and silent) majority" on which Richard Nixon still counts.

Within this struggle, Watergate is incidental. But it is the clue to the bitterness and distaste which mark the relations of the two men--- Labor Secretary Brennan and union chief of chiefs Meany.

The chunky, still golf club-swinging Meany, who was active in Herbert Hoover's day, for example, said the other day that Watergate "is the greatest government crisis in my lifetime."

To former building and construction trades unions (New York) leader Brennan, Watergate is "crap." And I've polished up that one. During one recent speech, Brennan said that the people were not interested in "Watergate, house gates or garden gates." Just in "making a living, getting a job." He means it.

During the 75- minute morning Cabinet session June 7, Brennan, long accustomed to speaking bluntly, said that in traveling around the country he found "the nation as a whole is not being so consumed with the scandal, although recognizing its importance." Most folks, said Brennan, were far less concerned about the Watergate thing than those in the capital. President Nixon had barely mentioned the subject.

Then during a closed-circuit cross- country A.T.&T. Tele- Lecture speech to Labor Dept. employes in 10 regions, Brennan said:

"We won't be deterred from reaching our goals by rumor or gossip or glaring headlines. We can't ignore the Watergates, but they won't stop us from moving ahead to make this a better America--- an America we can continue to love. If wrong has been done--- let the guilty be found and punished. But let's not slow down our own drive to a better future."

Thus Peter Brennan is fulfilling his basic assignment--- to stand by the President, to reach out to the hard hats and deliver the blue- collar workers just as he did back in May 1970. That month was Dick Nixon's previous low point. That month he ordered the troop movement into Cambodia. That month the nation boiled over with riots, demonstrations and campus cries of "Power to the People." That month the college youngsters poured off the campuses onto the city streets.

That month Pete Brennan put 125,000 hard hats onto the sidewalks of New York to drown out and outnumber the roaring opposition. And the Brennan- Nixon romance began, carefully nurtured by special presidential counselor Charles "Chuck" Colson, the latter- day Cyrano.

It was Colson who picked Brennan. For many reasons. Domestically the Labor Dept. is more equal that other Cabinet seats when it comes to making or breaking a union, a corporation, a massive project, or even the economy--- just look at it carefully.

Colson reasoned, right after the '72 election, the department could not be turned over to any man, be he a professor such as George Shultz or a businessman such as the late Jim Mitchell, who would work too closely with Meany.

Further, Brennan was, and is, a Nixon- Colson loyalist. This is reflected in virtually all of Pete's speeches and congressional testimony. And in his series of private meetings and talks with national labor chiefs.

True, Brennan isn't an economist. Nor an administrator. But this was easily remedied. To Brennan's side came one of the government's most astute executives--- a lady who knows her way through the federal labyrinth far better than anyone in this administration 1969- 1973. She is Mrs. Joan Hall. She was Colson's secretary. No simple task--- as when some 72 calls, some of them from Cabinet members, rolled up in one morning.

Mrs. Hall, as she did in the Colson office, has whipped things into well- oiled operational action for Brennan, whose executive secretary she is now.

And it was Colson who brought the rest of the hard hats and other powerful union chiefs to Mr. Nixon as he had Brennan. Certainly the most powerful of those is the Teamsters general president Frank "Fitz" Fitzsimmons who saved Phase 2 from collapse when Meany pulled out. And it is Fitz who was among the first to tell the President Monday, June 11, noontime, that he would be at the 3 o'clock Labor-Management Advisory Committee of the Cost of Living Council regardless of who could or couldn't come.

Obviously Colson guessed right with Brennan who, except for an official public handshake, hasn't spoken with Meany since mid- February, according to "sources." Brennan's now about to hit the road. New York this week. The rest of the country soon after. He wants to deliver the "movement," the hard hats and blue- collar 1972 majority, back to Dick Nixon. And it will have to be over Meany's husky body, curt voice and Richelieu- Metternich- (Golda) Meir political astuteness.

And the betting is on Meany. But should Brennan deliver he'll have much of the powerful political labor movement. And, as one of his close aides said the other day, "We're not only staying through this administration but through the next." To Pete that could mean only Rockefeller.

There's more here than Sam Ervin's standing- room- only thriller.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Kelley and Minorities

WASHINGTON— Justice Department field reports from Missouri, intended for official eyes only, severely criticize Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley for his handling of police brutality cases. Kelley, of course, is President Nixon's latest choice as a permanent director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"There have been several incidents in the last two years of perceived severe police brutality against minority citizens," stated one report filed from Kansas City last year. "No meaningful efforts have been made... to show the public that the (Police Department) will not tolerate excessive use of force by its officers."

The report called on the Justice Department in Washington "for assistance in dealing with these situations." The field office urged Washington to make its concern known "to effect positive changes in police-community relations." However, there is no evidence that the Justice Department ever followed up on the recommendation.

Meanwhile, another report from Kansas City also criticizes Kelley's dealings with minorities. In April 1968, in the wake of Martin Luther King's assassination, riots broke out in Kansas City and six blacks were killed. A civil disorder report was called for and completed, but five years later many of its recommendations have gone unmet.

"The necessary steps, for example, have not been taken to regain local control of the Police Department," noted one report. "Human relations training should be intensified," it added. The report also recommended that Kelley's department review citizens' complaints more closely and hire more blacks. Even now, however, only seven per cent of Kelley's 1,300- man force is black.

The Police Department has earned praise for "a number of efforts" that have improved the department's relationship with the community. Kelley, for example, has experimented with storefront offices in the ghetto and has increased the size of his community relations unit.

But one report has noted: "To the extent that change has occurred, federal funding has been the impetus. To the extent that change has not occurred, racism has been the primary impediment." Without federal programs, claims this report, "very little change since the civil disorder would be in evidence."

Footnote: To Kelley's credit, he has made extensive use of computers and helicopters to cut Kansas City's crime rate. He is also sensitive to complaints about the misuse of electronic surveillance. Under Kelley, police use of wiretapping in Kansas City has been tightly controlled and reduced.

McGovern's Security Briefings: The White House gave George McGovern's security adviser, Paul Warnke, three security briefings during the 1972 campaign. The purpose was to assure continuity in case McGovern won the election.

Now President Nixon has divulged that, in 1970, he authorized surveillance methods (1) which a security adviser warned were "clearly illegal" and (2) which the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover refused to implement. Thereafter, the President went ahead without Hoover to form his own private, parapolice outfit, known as "the plumbers," inside the White House.

As justification, the President claimed radicals and revolutionaries were such a threat to the national security that extralegal steps were necessary.

Yet not a word of this was ever mentioned to Warnke who, as an assistant defense secretary under the late Lyndon Johnson, held the highest security clearance.

The White House briefings were conducted by Gen. Alexander Haig, then Henry Kissinger's No. 2 man. Warnke described them as no more than "textbook" summaries of foreign policy problems. "Domestic threats to national security were never even brought up," he told us.

"Much of the briefings were routine," he recalled. Except for occasional tidbits of international gossip, he was given little information that hadn't already appeared in the press.

One tantalizing tidbit that Warnke pried out of Haig involved India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Warnke asked why the United States had delayed naming a successor to Kenneth Keating as ambassador to India. Haig confided that Madame Gandhi and Ambassador Keating had engaged in a spat shortly before Keating's departure. Haig described the lady's language as "vitriolic."

The White House, therefore, had decided to delay appointing a new ambassador until Madame Gandhi cooled off.

Of more substance, Warnke disclosed that the White House was optimistic about a Vietnam settlement days before the election. After his last briefing on October 20, 1972, Warnke reported that Haig had been "circumspect" on the subject of Vietnam. "The net impression," wrote Warnke, "is that Henry Kissinger is working feverishly for a settlement." Six days later, Kissinger issued his famous "peace is at hand" statement.

Warnke was also told of rising tensions along the Chinese- Russian border and deteriorating Russian- Egyptian relations, which he had read about in more detail in the Washington Post. He was told the secret number of missile silos, however, that the Russians were building.

But the Domestic threat to national security, which President Nixon now cites as justification for the bizarre plumbers operation, was never mentioned.

Job's Daughters install new queen

Miss Frances Riddle, daughter of Mrs. Mary McAfee, 309 Virginia, and the late Charles Riddle, was installed as honored queen of Bethel No. 27 of International Order of Job's Daughters June 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

Decorations of pink, orchid and purple were above the three main stations with an open Bible draped in purple and white.

The ceremony began as Mrs. Edith Grimes, the bethel guardian, and Aquilla Grimes, associate guardian, were escorted into the room by installing senior custodian Lisa Righter and junior custodian Marsha Dement.

Mrs. Grimes called the proceedings to order and directed the associate guardian to escort the installing honored queen into the room. Mrs. Claudia Lambert, installing queen, was escorted to the east.

Mrs. Lambert directed the other installing officers to enter. They were Melissa Holt, installing guide; Prissy Righter, installing marshal; Jane Campbell, installing chaplain; Lucile Mount, installing recorder; Mrs. Mildred Canedy, soloist, and Mrs. Mayme Jean Poage, organist.

The elected and appointed officers then were escorted to their positions for the installation. In addition to honored queen, new officers are Libby Walker, senior princess; Susan Dement, junior princess; Beth Hambrick, guide; Lee Ann Matthews, marshal; Carolyn McAfee, chaplain; Myra Mills, recorder; Nancy Forbis, treasurer; Andrea Wheeler, librarian; Leslie Cox, first messenger; Susie Adams, second messenger; Patti Eaker, third messenger; LaRue Campbell, fourth messenger; Pam Weddington, fifth messenger; Michelle Powell, senior custodian; Theresa Weathers, junior custodian; Robyn Hale, inner guard; Julie Branum, outer guard; Cindy Cox, musician; and Tammy Houchins, flag carrier.

Miss Campbell, installing chaplain, assisted by Miss Dement, Lisa and Prissy Righter and Melissa Holt, presented the Bible at the altar in a candlelight ceremony. Mrs. Canedy sang, "Fill My Cup Lord", accompanied by Mrs. Poage. This was followed by the presentation of the American flag, pledge of allegiance and the National Anthem.

The new officers and choir repeated the obligation to the bethel and to the duties of their respective offices.

Misses Walker and Dement were escorted to the altar and Mrs. Canedy sang original words to the tune of "'S Wonderful".

Miss Riddle was escorted to the altar where she knelt.

Mrs. Lambert then approached and placed a glittering crown on Miss Riddle's head and invested her with the cape of royal purple velvet which symbolizes the office of the honored queen.

Mrs. Canedy sang, "Ain't She Sweet", changing the words to fit the occasion.

Miss Riddle was then escorted to the east by her stepfather, Carroll McAfee, and Miss Kathy Eaker, junior past honored queen, presented the gavel to her cousin. Miss Lucile Mount, installing recorder, made the proclamation that concluded the ceremony.

Miss Eaker was escorted to the altar where she received a past honored queen's jewel and a dozen red roses. Mrs. Canedy sang original words to "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face".

During the ceremonies of escorts and honors, Miss Riddle introduced her mother, stepfather and brother and sister, Jimmy and Carolyn. Other relatives and officials were also recognized and introduced.

The installing officers approached the east and Miss Riddle gave them gifts.

While singing "Onward Christian Soldiers", the Job's Daughters formed a cross and knelt to sing, "Nearer My God to Thee".

While the girls remained kneeling, Kenneth Riddle, past worthy patron of Chapter No. 137, and an uncle of Miss Riddle, gave the benediction. The bethel guardian closed the ceremony.

A reception given by Order of the Eastern Star Chapter No. 137 followed the ceremony and was held in the temple's dining room. Decorations here also followed the installing colors of pink, orchid and purple.

Refreshments were served.

Ann Landers

Children should learn killing is not sport

Dear Ann Landers: Something MUST be done about kids who are turned loose with B.B. guns and pellets. This morning I heard strange sounds outside my window and discovered that my brother (age 12) had just shot a mother woodpecker and her baby. Although they were already dead he continued to shoot them.

This isn't the first time I've caught him doing such a thing. And he isn't the only one. His friends are just as bad. I blame their parents who think there is something wonderful about teaching children to "hunt." It makes me sick to see nature's creatures dead all around me -- deer, ducks, rabbits, squirrels.

At one time man had to kill animals for survival. Today, shooting animals and calling it a "sport" is not only a popular pastime but it's downright fashionable.

I know all the arguments put out by gun clubs, rifle and bullet manufactureres, and magazines that push these sales. They scream about "balance of nature," etc. In the meantime, I am deeply concerned about young people who are taught to kill. Do you have the courage to print this letter? Or has the gun lobby got to you, too? ---A Reader

Dear Reader: You must be a brand new reader or you wouldn't have asked that last question. Here's your letter and my thanks to you for having written it.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "A Doctor's Wife" burned my up. She was undoubtedly trying to defend the members of the Noble Fraternity of Medicine against the charges that some of them make passes at women patients in the examining rooms. What really ticked me off was the way she lambasted "the town's bored and neurotic society ladies'' who keep propositioning her physician-husband.

Her physician- husband may be a wonderful, kind-hearted, compassionate man, someone in whom women confide easily, but he also has a very loose lip if he goes home and tells his wife stuff like that. I would classify such information as ''strictly confidential."

I know several doctors' wives and most of them drink too much. If their husbands are confiding in them, the medical profession is in sad shape. ---View From The Bridge.

Dear View: I don't believe doctors' wives drink more than the wives of lawyers, sewer inspectors or bus drivers. I do go along with you, however, on physicians who report at home about the unseemly behavior of their women patients. Such information should stay in the office.

Dear Ann Landers: A single women in her early 30s joined our typing pool last year. She was vague about her social life and never invited any of us to her apartment. We decided she is living with a man.

Three months ago "Miss Enigma" began to put on weight. Last week it became apparent that she is pregnant. She is not wearing maternity clothes, just larger blouses and skirts.

This afternoon during coffee break we were discussing diets. "Miss Enigma" casually mentioned that she has put on about 15 pounds due to a tumor which she is having out "in a few months."

We hate for her to think she is fooling anyone. What should our attitude be? -- Not Born Yesterday.

Dear N. B. Y.: Improved. Right now it's disgusting. People who assume the worst spoil my day. You dames need more work. Why don't you varnish your desks?

Ann Landers discusses teen-age drinking -- its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading, "Booze And You -- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Magruder confesses to involvement, says President had no knowledge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder confessed Watergate involvement today, said as far as he knows President Nixon had no knowledge of "our errors in this matter," but said a White House aide was told of the wiretapping plan three months before it was executed.

Magruder said he informed Gordon Strachan, a White House aide who worked directly for presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

Testifying at the Senate's televised Watergate hearings, he said he personally informed Strachan that plans for the wiretapping had been approved by John N. Mitchell.

Magruder said Mitchell, the campaign director and former attorney general, approved the final $250,000 bugging proposal on March 30, 1972, at Key Biscayne, Fla. He said the operation was first proposed by G. Gordon Liddy, then a campaign aide, later convicted as a Watergate conspirator.

"No one was completely overwhelmed with the project. But we thought the information could be useful and Mr. Mitchell approved the project," said Magruder.

This meeting had followed two meetings earlier in the year where Mitchell had first rejected a $1-million proposal and then a $500,000 plan, Magruder testified.

Logs of wiretapped telephone conversations were regularly given to Mitchell, Magruder said.

He said Strachan also saw the logs, but didn't receive copies of them for his own use.

Magruder said Mitchell was angry at Liddy because there was little useful information in the logs. "He said they were worthless, and not worth the money we paid," Magruder recalled.

Strachan, who viewed the documents in Magruder's office, also agreed that there was little of substance in them, Magruder said.

Liddy explained that one of the wiretaps which had been placed in the Democratic headquarters didn't work, and promised Mitchell to correct the situation, Magruder said.

Magruder said John W. Dean III, ousted White House counsel, was also among those present at the two meetings at which wiretapping plans were presented by Liddy.

"Unfortunately we made some mistakes in the campaign which led to a major national concern," said Magruder, who served as deputy director of the Nixon organization.

Magruder, 38, said he took full responsibility for his own acts and, as "a mature man," is willing to face the consequences.

"As far as I know, at no point in time in this entire period from the time of planning of the Watergate to the time of trying to keep it from the public view did the President have any knowledge of our errors in this matter," Magruder said. "He had full confidence in his aides, and I must confess that some of us failed him ..."

Magruder's public admission came in a brief prepared statement he read to the televised hearings of the Senate Watergate committee. He said he was willing to take the consequences of his actions.

Magruder, testifying with limited immunity from prosecution for what he says to the Senate investigators, told the committee he would name others who participated with him in the operation.

The 38-year-old former cosmetics executive read his dramatic statement almost as an afterthought, after committee questioning had begun with routine questions about his background and position in the campaign.

His lawyer broke in to ask that he be permitted to read the statement.

Answering the initial questions, Magruder said former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was responsible for the Nixon re-election campaign "from the beginning." Magruder said that meant May 1971, long before Mitchell left the Nixon Cabinet.

He said H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former White House chief of staff, was the liaison man with the campaign organization.

Magruder said wiretapping was first proposed Jan. 27, 1972, at a meeting in the office of Atty. Gen. Mitchell.

He said it was proposed by G. Gordon Liddy, who had been detailed to the Nixon re-election campaign from the White House specifically to set up an intelligence operation.

Mitchell, White House counsel John W. Dean III, and Magruder were present at the 30minute meeting, Magruder said.

Besides wiretapping, Liddy also proposed a plan to kidnap leaders of radical groups, hold them in places like Mexico, and return them after the Republican National Convention, Magruder said.

He said Liddy also proposed the use of call girls to gain information from Democratic officials. Liddy wanted to hire a yacht and equip it with cameras and recorders, Magruder said.

"I think all three of us were appalled at the scope of the project. I don't think it was in Mr. Mitchell's or Mr. Dean's mind," Magruder said.

He said Mitchell indicated this wasn't acceptable and directed Liddy to come up with some acceptable plan.

Magruder said he reported this meeting to Gordon Strachan, a member of the White House staff who reported directly to Haldeman. "I think I discussed the general nature of his (Liddy's) proposal," Magruder recalled.

Magruder said Strachan was also sent the results of a second meeting held Feb. 4, 1972, at which wiretapping was discussed.

This was also in Mitchell's office with Dean, Magruder and Liddy present, he said.

Magruder said Liddy's second proposal also was rejected, but that Liddy was encouraged to keep working. He said Mitchell "just didn't feel comfortable with it at that level."

The Chicago Tribune reported today that Magruder already has told committee investigators that Mitchell gave Stans the complete story behind Watergate a week after the breakin.

Magruder said Stans was filled in on details at a meeting in Mitchell's office last June 24, one week after the Watergate burglary, the Tribune reported.

Stans has denied any part in the attempt to cover up the break-in, and said most of his information about Watergate came from news accounts.

Once a Nixon campaign deputy, Magruder admitted planning the Watergate wiretapping with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III and convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, according to a sworn account by former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman.

Two colleagues at the Nixon campaign have testified that Magruder asked them to lie about the affair under oath. Herbert L. Porter swore that he did commit perjury, but Hugh Sloan Jr. testified that he refused Magruder's requests to understate the amount of money paid to Liddy.

Magruder is identified in news accounts as the man who is expected to plead guilty and testify at trial without immunity. Federal prosecutors say one unidentified figure in the case agreed to plead guilty to a single charge in the case, and to implicate others.

Magruder has obtained immunity from prosecution for whatever he might say at the Senate hearings. But this does not necessarily protect him from being prosecuted in the courts, where he has no immunity.

Stans, who is a former secretary of commerce and the chief fund-raiser for the President's re-election campaign committee, was questioned harshly Wednesday by Democratic senators. One Republican member objected to what he called harassment of Stans.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, DGa., said he found one aspect of Stans' testimony "frankly inconceivable." This was Stans' assertion that he did not inquire about the purpose of money Magruder authorized for Liddy.

And Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said he thought it a "queer coincidence ..., rather a suspicious coincidence," that Stans destroyed records of the cash that paid for the break-in and wiretapping after the bugging crew was caught red-handed.

Stans testified that he had received legal advice that he did not have to keep records of the cash donations and disbursements. The audience in the hearing room broke into laughter when Stans said that Liddy was among those who gave the advice.

Liddy was Stans' counsel at the Finance Committee to Reelect the President until 11 days after the break-in, when Stans fired him for refusing to answer questions of FBI investigators.

In other Watergate developments:

—Members of a House subcommittee questioned Ehrlichman for six hours behind closed doors about whether he approved a memorandum authorizing the 1971 break-in at Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. "He did approve a proposal," said subcommittee Chairman Lucien V. Nedzi, D-Mich. "The substance of it is not clear."

—Sources close to the Senate investigation said Gordon Strachan, an aide to former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, is ready to testify about his role in the scandal if immunity can be secured.

Strahan reportedly received information from wiretap logs, and also handled a secret $350,000 fund that reportedly ended up as payments to the Watergate burglars.

—The Senate committee scheduled an extra day of hearings for next Monday and agreed to hold an additional hearing if necessary the following Monday. Hearings have been regularly scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and plans are to hold hearings June 18-21 and June 26-28, with a possible extra day June 25.

FACTS ABOUT SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL

Solid waste disposal will become a municipal problem after June 30, of this year, and City officials have received numerous questions concerning the problem.

City residents throughout the County are interested in what the solid waste fuss is all about; what will be done to dispose of solid waste after June 30; and other aspects of the problem.

To help inform the residents of New Madrid County as to what has been, and will be done about the problem, the following questions and answers have been prepared.

WHAT IS ALL THIS SOLID WASTE FUSS ABOUT?

It is about all the solid waste that every home throws away, including paper; packaging; cans; garbage; containers; nonreturnable bottles and etc. The present dumps are becoming nightmares of pollution and the State of Missouri has passed legislation requiring the closing of all open dumps by June 30, 1973. This means that all open dumps in the county will be closed.

WHAT WILLWE DO WITH SOLID WASTE AFTER JUNE 30, 1973?

The same State legislation which will close all open dumps allows for the operation of a Sanitary Landfill, which must be licensed by the State Board Of Health. Solid waste may be buried in the landfills (ground) which meet state requirements. Waste must be covered with six inches of earth each day and two feet of dirt must cover the final fill. Large machinery, such as a D-7 caterpillar, will be required to dig out and re- cover the area. Back- up equipment will be needed, as well as equipment to spray for flies, which is a daily requirement.

CAN A PERSON DISPOSE OF THEIR OWN SOLID WASTE?

Yes, if disposed of in an approved sanitary landfill. However, the state does require each city to have a solid waste disposal plan which will be available to every household each week. Each city will be required to have this service for all residents even if they do not have solid waste to dispose of. The state has specified that approval will not be given to any plan that does not provide pick up and disposal for all citizens.

HOW WILL ANY FEE BE COLLECTED?

Under state requirements fees must be collected by the city or county to pay for collections. A proposal to add a fee to a utility bill in the city for the amount to pay for collections has been suggested as one of the ways for the cities in New Madrid County.

WILL THE PROPOSED SYSTEM MEET STATE REQUIRMENTS?

Yes. This proposal, if adopted will meet the State Board of Health requirements for a solid waste plan for all cities in New Madrid County.

New Madrid County now owns a sanitary landfill four miles southwest of Lilbourn on Hiway 62. The landfill is centrally located and available to all residents of New Madrid County.

Because of complaints of dumping refuge on private and public property, vigorous action will be taken against offenders. As of now all open dumps in New Madrid County are closed and will be covered as soon as possible.

Attorneys General vote to urge energy investigation

ST. LOUIS (AP)— The National Association of Attorneys General voted unanimously Wednesday to urge Congress to establish a special task force to investigate the nation's energy crisis.

The resolution, passed during the final session of state prosecutors 67th annual conference here, said the probe should look at the oil industry in particular and include "the prosecution of federal anti-trust violations brought to light by such investigation."

In calling for the inquiry, the associated noted "the citizens of our states are being subjected to sharp increases in the price of gasoline and fuel oil."

A measure calling for "a full investigation by federal and state governments" into the Watergate scandal, however, did not find as receptive an audience.

By a 15- 12 vote, the country's top state legal officers rejected the Watergate resolution with the balloting closely following party lines.

Three Democrats joined 12 Republicans to defeat the measure with the 12 favorable votes coming from Democrats.

Missouri's Republican Attorney General John C. Danforth called it an "empty resolution."

"It, Watergate is already being investigated," Danforth said, and passage of the resolution "would make this organization look silly."

But Democrat Robert H. Quinn of Massachusetts said the proposal was not political.

"It does not lay blame anywhere. It simply reminds us to pursue violations of the law whereever they exist," Quinn said.

Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren of Wisconsin was chosen as the association's new president, succeeding Gary K. Nelson of Arizona.

NOTICE

Anyone caught dumping refuse anywhere except at an approved sanitary landfill will be prosecuted.

Heated debate results over 18 year old rights

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "We're not going to eliminate 17 and 18-year-olds drinking by passing this amendment," a Missouri House member said during debate on whether to allow 18-year-olds full adult rights.

The House approved a bill Wednesday sponsored by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, to allow persons 18 years or older to have the same privileges and responsibilities as those over 21 have now.

However, there was heated debate on whether to allow the 18-year-olds the right to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

Jones' bill was amended in the Senate to prohibit the buying and consuming of alcoholic beverages, but the House substituted Jones' original proposal.

An amendment was offered to put back the Senate prohibition, which sparked the debate.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-St. Louis County, said letting the young people have the right to buy liquor would produce increased death rates on state highways.

When Meyer said the accident rate in Michigan had increased 50 per cent since the majority age was lowered there, several other lawmakers countered that was not the case in other states that have adopted it.

"Right now young people in St. Louis can go across the river to Illinois and buy liquor, and then come back and drive on our highways," one member noted.

Several representatives protested the bill would be unfair if the young people did not get all the rights adults possess.

"No one here today has made the distinction of whether an 18-year old given the right to buy liquor will consume more than those aged 21 to 90," said Rep. C. F. Cline, D-Sikeston.

"In fact, we have some people in this very chamber who can't hold their liquor," he added.

Rep. David Reed, R-Kansas City, said the young people could already find ways to buy beer and liquor if they wanted it, which "leads to disrepect for the present laws."

One representative predicted the bill would never pass the Senate again with the liquor section taken out.

"The vote on this was very close in the Senate ... and none of those senators are going to yield their positions on it."

Suggestion made on allocation of crime-fighting funds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A report soon to be released by the state Law Enforcement Assistance Council recommends that federal crime-fighting funds be given only to those city and county jails where officials genuinely want to improve them.

The report of the LEAC's adult corrections committee calls most of the 144 jails unfit for human habitation, said Chairman Harry Wiggins Wednesday.

"The committee feels that no more money should be used for piecemeal fixup of local jails," Wiggins said. "You wouldn't even house your dog, or for that matter, a stray dog, in many of these places."

The committee toured the state's jails. Wiggins said St. Louis and Pettis County have good jails, but those in Platte, Ray, Buchanan and many rural counties are inadequate.

and Jackson counties to raise their annual park levies from eight to 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The counties could add one cent in 1975 and another in 1976.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-St. Louis County, was unsuccessful in adding an amendment to require the proposal be put before voters. He objected to giving local governing bodies power to raise people's taxes.

The House gave lopsided approval to a bill granting 18year-olds full adult rights, including the right to buy alcoholic beverages. The bill went back to the Senate, which had excluded the right to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

The bill would go into effect Sept. 28.

A bill to increase the aid to dependent children payments by $5 per person met opposition from the House, which wanted a $10 increase. The House offered to delay the effective date of the bill to 1974 if the Senate would go along with the increase.

Under the Senate version, a mother would receive $38 a month, the first child would get $48 a month and each additional child would receive $29 a month. The bill is expected to cost $11 million a year to fund.

Another public assistance bill cleared the legislative machinery Wednesday and was en route to the governo's desk.

It would provide continuance of old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to the permanently disabled when the federal government takes over the program next year.

Welfare officials say the federal benefits may be less than the current payments because the federal supplements to the state program may be reduced. About 117,000 Missourians would be affected.

A bill to extend licenses to sell liquor by the drink to resorts in unincorporated areas cleared the Senate and went back to the House for approval of an amendment to exclude country clubs from the bill.

Under present law, only resorts in counties bordering on lakes with at least 250 miles of shoreline (Lake of the Ozarks) can sell liquor by the drink. Other resorts have package outlets.

Sent to the governor was a bill requiring the Public Service Commission to inspect and issue seals to all mobile homes manufactured after Jan. 1, 1974.

The bill says the Division of Health will set up regulations requiring all mobile homes to be tied down to avoid blowing over in tornados. However, a Senate amendment took out a penalty of a misdemeanor if mobile home owners refused to comply.

The bill does not cover motor homes or camper trucks.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a $7.6 million appropriations bill to fund programs approved this year by the legislature.

Included was $200,000 for higher daily expense money for legislators. The lawmakers have approved and sent to the governor a bill increasing their per day expenses from $10 to $25.

Another $2.9 million in the bill would equalize the pay of state employes in out-state areas with the pay of state employes in urban areas.

The House passed and sent to the governor bills that would:

—Raise the salaries of the two associate prosecuting attorneys of the St. Louis Court of Criminal Correction from $14,000 to $17,000 a year.

—Increase the number of staff members the St. Louis circuit attorney could hire and raise the pay of all staff members.

—Allow a city to transfer vacant or uninhavited land adjacent to the city to another city by ordinance if the land also borders on the other city.

—Puts the common pleas court under the jurisdiction of the probate judge in Cape Girardeau County.

—Provide that in criminal cases where the jury has the discretion as to the extent of punishment, it must assess the punishment when giving its verdict.

—Reduce from nine to six months the period after a person's death in which his real estate cannot be sold, if there is a mortgage on the property.

In other action the House passed and returned to the Senate bills that would:

—Provide that if two or more persons conspire to commit a msidemeanor they would be guilty of a misdemeanor, and if they conspire to commit a felony, they are guilty of a felony.

—Make it the state duty of circuit court clerks to keep all records of the courts and let them use new methods and systems for keeping records.

and more-flexible authority needed" to impose export controls on products such as grain and animal feedstuffs. "In allocating the products of America's farms between markets abroad and those in the United States, we must put the American consumer first," he said.

—A presidential order for the Internal Revenue Service to immediately audit the books of companies that raised their prices more than 1.5 per cent during Phase 3. If the increases weren't justified, Nixon said "the prices will be rolled back."

—A request that Congress allow him to eliminate tariffs on imported meat and other scarce items such as plywood and zinc, plus authority to sell more surplus commodities from government stockpiles.

—A promise of new farm legislation to put "high production ahead of high prices," a threat to veto any spending bill that exceeds his proposed budget, and a plea that Congress quickly clear the way for the Alaska pipeline to combat oil and gasoline shortages.

Nixon said he didn't freeze wages because they hadn't been a significant cause of price increases. They will remain for now under Phase 3 guidelines which generally call for pay boosts to be held to 5.5 per cent a year.

But officials made clear that wage controls are forthcoming in Phase 4, which Nixon said "will recognize the need for wages and prices to be treated consistently with one another."

In recent months it became increasingly clear that Phase 3 wasn't checking inflation. Consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 9.2 per cent during the first four months of the year while food prices shot upward at an annual rate of 25.4 per cent.

"Everybody admits Phase 3 was a failure," Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz conceded at a news conference Wednesday night. "Let's not argue about that."

In his speech, Nixon repeated his opposition to a government controlled economy. He said Phase 4 will be intended to "return us as quickly as possible to the free-market system."

The accident occurred after a heavy rain when a station wagon driven west by Golden Allen Koontz, 56, of Troy, Ohio, met an eastbound car driven by Otis Kyle, 67, of Bloomfield. Kyle's auto hit a patch of water, went out of control and struck the Koontz vehicle.

Koontz received minor facial cuts and a passenger, Geraldine Koontz, 52, of Troy, suffered minor head and arm injuries. Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

A car and a motorcycle collided at 3:15 p.m. on a township road two miles northeast of Kennett, injuring the motorcycle driver, Steven Lynn Elders, 16, of Kennett.

The accident occurred when both vehicles approached a blind intersection and the motorcycle struck the car driven by Jesse Raymond Bridges, 61, of Kennett which was turning left.

Elders received a broken right leg and bruises and was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital.

Franklin J. Box, 40, of Canalou suffered a hip and back injury at 4:40 p.m. at the intersection of Highways 61 and 80 one mile east of Matthews when he pulled his car into the path of a car driven by Verna Lois Moore, 64, of Matthews.

Mrs. Moore received minor injuries. She and Box were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Jaynes to star

PARMA -- Daily Standard's Sports Editor, Ron Jaynes, reportedly cut his vacation short to return to Parma in order to participate in the Donkey Baseball game being held here tonight at 8:00.

The Little League will sponsor the game which will be played from the backs of trained donkeys.

Other area personalities taking part in the seven inning affair will be Mary Randal Ramsey and New Madrid Couny School Board member, Hoyt Butler.

The game will be played on the baseball field behind the high school.

Wise came close

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rick Wise lit up a long cigar and gulped two sodas as he talked about the one that got away— his second major league no-hitter.

"I saw the ball come off the bat and thought 'it's over,"' said the St. Louis pitcher after throwing 8 1-3 innings of no-hit ball in an 8-0 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night.

Joe Morgan of the Reds laced a line drive over Wise's head into center field. It ended the Cardinal pitcher's bid to become the first National League hurler of the century to no-hit the same team twice.

"I tried extra hard, but he did what a good hitter should do. He just punched it out there," said the bespectacled right-hander, who fired a 4-0 no-hitter against the Reds two years ago.

"I shook off a breaking pitch because I wanted to go with my best pitch," said Wise, now 8-3.

Catcher Ted Simmons called for a curve because of Wise's predominant use of a fastball.

"He was just challenging them, as if to say, 'if you're gonna do it, do it'," said Simmons. "He had pinpoint control all night. He's not a fireballer. He just paints the outside corner all the time with his exceptional control."

Ten feet away, Luis Melendez blushed sheepishly as his teammates' directed loud congratulations meant more for the press corps which encircled Wise. "Don't forget Loesy," came the light-hearted jabs.

Melendez grand slam homer keyed a seven-run third inning explosion. But it was nearly forgotten as attention focused on the drama of Wise's bid.

Wise, who said the sticky, 75degree temperatures kept him from stiffening up, said he was aware of his no-hitter all along.

"Listen, you always know that, but you don't think you really have a shot until around the seventh inning. I went with the fast ball most of the time and kept it away from them," said the 27-year-old Portland, Ore., native.

Wise, who lost 12 one-run games last year to finish 16-16, struck out four and walked three.

The loser was Reds' ace Jack Billingham, 8-3.

"We owed them a licking," said Wise, referring to the Reds' 10 victories in 12 meetings with the Cards last year.

Youth program open Saturday

Youths from the ages of eight to sixteen are reminded to participate in the Sikeston Recreational program Saturday, from 9 to 12 a.m.

Leo Schade, publicity chairman for the program, said that plenty of equipment is available and everyone will have the chance to participate in his own age group. Any sport can be chosen in which to take part. He added that the program is well supervised by men from the various civic organizations.

Three sites are open for the program: the high school, middle school and Lincoln school.

Herron charged

WINNIPEG (AP) — Mack Herron, former Kansas State football player and an All-Star running back for Winnipeg of the Canadian Football League, will have another week to make a plea in connection with charges against him of possession of marijuana and cocaine.

Judge Wallace Darichuk granted a remand Wednesday in provincial judge's court on request of Herron's legal counsel.

Trevino favored

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Lee Trevino was full of vim and vinegar and conceding nothing to defending champion Jack Nicklaus as they and 148 other golfers began pursuit today of the 73rd U.S. Open title.

"I had to laugh when I read in the paper that Bill Casper said Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf have a 10-shot advantage here this week," the voluble Mexican-American spouted. "Casper must be talking about himself—he's not talking about the Mex.

"I figure I've got as good a chance as anybody. I'm as ready as I'm ever going to be. This is not the Memphis Open or the Dallas Open. This is the U.S. Open. I get keyed up for this one."

The swarthy, 33-year-old Trevino is acting like a prize fighter who can't wait for the bell to ring. He is edgy and tense. His usual good humor is blunted by a fierce impatience.

Trevino, who has won two U. S. Open titles and joined the exclusive ranks of golfing millionaires in his six years on the tour, is one of the favorites among the 137 pros and 13 amateurs beginning the fourday, 72-hole test over the 6,921yard, par 71 Oakmont course, notorious for its cavernous traps and glass-slick greens.

In the star-spangled field, Trevino is the one man who can look Nicklaus squarely in the eye and not melt with awe. He defeated Nicklaus in a playoff for the Open crown two years ago at Merion, outside Philadelphia, and with a dramatic finishing flourish, killed Jack's bid for a Grand Slam by winning the British Open last July at Muirfield, Scotland.

Nicklaus is the top choice at 6-1, followed by Trevino and Weiskopf at 8-1, Arnold Palmer and Bruce Crampton at 10-1, Lanny Wadkins, Gary Player, Tony Jacklin and Casper at 151.

The first group was to tee off today at 7:30 a.m. EDT.

USC remains champ

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Baseball dynasties aren't dead, just ask Arizona State.

The top-rated collegiate team suffered a 4-3 loss here Wednesday night to Southern California and for the fourth straight year the Trojans carted home the national collegiate baseball crown.

"We were young and scrappy, but we said we could play with anybody," said USC Coach Rod Dedeaux. "And that's the way we won it. We scrapped."

Southern California, 51-11, didn't wow anyone with hitting, but won the College World Series in its typical methodical manner—with good defense and by taking advantage of the breaks.

"Throughout the game, whenever it seemed we might be able to score a few runs, or break out, they came up with the super defensive play," said Arizona Coach Jim Brock.

"They had at least five super defensive plays," he continued. "Their defensive play throughout the game proved to be the difference."

And an end of Southern California dominance isn't in sight.

'We wanted this title very badly," continued Dedeaux, who has coached eight of the nine Trojans title clubs.

"We are an extremely young team, losing only (Daryl) Arenstein and (Craig) Barnes off the entire roster. If we keep this team intact we'll have a pretty good club next year."

Keeping the talent around is a problem at USC, six players off the 1973 title club were drafted by major league teams and a most probably will sign.

Southern California bunched eight of its nine hits in the first four innings to built a 4-0 lead and then repeatedly held off Arizona State, 59-8, in the battle of college baseball's two superpowers.

Final containment came from the arm of sophomore Jeff Reinke, who threw no-hit ball over the final three and twothirds innings to save the victory for Mark Barr.

Reinke, a sophomore who is at USC on a basketball scholarship, typifies what college teams have to contend with when they face the Trojans.

Blues make trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hockey Blues have acquired left wing Jack Rathwell from the Buffalo Sabres in exchange for defenseman Paul Curtis, the team announced Wednesday.

Rathwell, 25, scored 30 goals and 50 assists last season with the Sabres' Cincinnati farm club.

Curtis, also 25, scored only one goal and three assists with the Blues during 28 games last season.

Senior tennis tour is formed

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Riggs, Frank Parker, Billy Talbert, Pancho Segura—famous names from tennis' golden past—all hope to regain some of their lost glory in the rebirth of interest that the sport currently enjoys.

Riggs hustled his way to a measure of recognition for the oldtimers with his recent easy victory over Australian Margaret Court in what was billed as the Battle of the Sexes. Now some of his middle-aged friends are hoping to get a piece of the action through the brainchild of Al Bunis of Cincinnati, a leading authority on senior tenn s.

Bunis announced at a news conference Wednesday the formation of a Tennis Grand Masters Tour, featuring 12 of the game's best senior players. These players, he said, will compete for $250,000 in cash prizes in 10 different U.S. cities and several European capitals this year, with the weekend activity getting underway July 2022 in Milwaukee.

Bunis, captain of the U.S. Dubler Cup team, the senior division equivalent of the Davis Cup, said he considers tennis to be the game of the 1970s as golf was the sport of the 1950s and 1960s. And, he added, tennis also is becoming more and more a game for the middleaged.

The Grand Masters include Riggs, rated the finest match player of all time; Talbert, holder of 38 national titles; Gardnar Mulloy, seven times U.S. senior champion; Vic Sexias, 1953 Wimbledon champion; Segura, current senior hard court champion; Parker, USLTA national champion in 1944 and 1945, and Tom Brown, three-time U.S. Davis Cupper.

Also, Gustavo Palofax, No. 1 senior player in the U.S.; Jaroslav Drobny, 1954 Wimbledon champion; Hugh Stewart, winner of 20 national championships; Straight Clark, current Wimbledon senior champion, and Sam Match, two-time national clay court doubles champion.

Tennessee sets hunting seasons

The ten- member Tennessee Game and Fish Commission has approved hunting regulations for the 1973-74 season. The public meeting held in Nashville produced several new management prescriptions for Tennessee's wildlife resources.

Director David M. Goodrich announced that the state has been divided into nine big game hunting units in order to better manage Tennessee's diverse habitat. Also, seasons for upland game will be standardized to a particular day of the month for opening and closing. Goodrich also noted that checking stations for big game will be established in each county to obtain better big game harvest data. The Bullfrog season and limits appeared on the hunting regulations this year, also, instead of the fishing regulations.

For the first time in four years, bear hunting will be allowed in Tennessee. One bear per person per year may be taken in Units I and II in upper East Tennessee and on certain portions of the Cherokee Wildlife Management Area. Parts of the Cherokee area will be designated as bear reserves.

The Commission also approved a "no- wake" zoning at Center Hill Reservoir's Floating Mill recreational area. The area was declared hazardous to safe boating because of the heavy use by boaters and swimmers.

Regulations for the state's wildlife management areas will be published at a later date with the deer hunting zones and regulations. General regulations are listed below.

STATEWIDE HUNTING SEASONS AND BAG LIMITS SET BY THE COMMISSION

Species, Date, Bag/ Possession in respective order:

SQUIRREL — Fourth Saturday in August, limit 6 daily, 12 possession.

RABBIT — Thanksgiving Day, 5 daily, 12 possession.

BOBWHITE QUAIL — Thanksgiving Day, 10 daily, 20 possession.

RUFFED GROUSE — Second Saturday in October, 3 daily, 6 possession.

DEER (archery) — Last Saturday in September, limit varies with the unit.

RACCOON — Sunset, Second Friday in October, one per party per night east of Hwy. 27, one per person per night or two per party per night west of Hwy. 27.

BOBCAT, OPOSSUM, MINK — Sunset Second Friday in October, no Limit

GROUNDHOG, GRAY FOX, SKUNK, WEASEL, COYOTE — Open entire year during daylight hours, no limit.

RED FOX — Season closed for taking or killing except in those counties regulated by private acts.

DEER (gun- archery) — Third Saturday in November, limit varies with the unit.

Royals efforts are criticized

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There were indications today of strained feelings between Manager Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals and the Royals front office over the club's efforts to secure new players.

McKeon, in Baltimore, criticized the Royals' front office for not being more aggressive in attempting to acquire such players as Deron Johnson, Jim Ray Hart and Sam McDowell.

McKeon leveled the criticism after the Royals had lost a 6-4 game Tuesday night to the Baltimore Orioles. He said the Royals, in effect, were standing still while other American League clubs were getting new players.

"When I say I'm hacked off we haven't be able to make a trade," McKeon said, "that is exactly what I mean — we. That includes me. I'm not trying to blame anybody. I'm just trying to get the man who will help us."

"After a losing game, a manager may say things that he will regret later," said General Manager Cedric Tallis. "I hope this is what happened in the case of Jac.

"It's a free country and Jack can say whatever he wants to say but whether or not he's right is another matter. I think that Jack, being a first year manager, is overanxious. He would like to win, and so would I.

"It would have been possible for us to get Hart last year but there was no designated hitter rule then. Hart had a bad record with his knee and all. He still doesn't move well. We sent a scout to see him and did not get a favorable report. This season we did not have a chance to get him.

"We were not aware that McDowell was available. I'm not sure whether McDowell was offered to anyone other than the Yankees. We tried to get Pat Dobson from Atlanta but we couldn't get waivers on one of our players.

"We knew the Yankees were trying to deal Mike Kekich but we felt Kekich had been to the well once to often and had been found wanting."

The New York Yankees obtained Hart, McDowell and Dobson. Kekich was traded by the Yankees several days ago to Cleveland.

Tallis said he did not think McKeon's criticism would "necessarily create an awkward situation in our organization. If the situation had been reversed, if I had been criticizing Jack, then I feel it would be an awkward situation. I look on it as something said in the heat of battle. I'm just going to say that Jack was upset and let it go at that."

Prelims begin in AAU track

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Marty Liquori has run just four races all year. But he rates as a co-favorite with Steve Prefontaine in the mile race at the 85th National AAU championships beginning tonight at Memorial Stadium.

The mile, traditionally the feature event, stands out, but not by much, over the halfmile.

Liquori was the public address announcer for the International Track Association this year and began his training late. He ran a 3:57.8 mile in his first race, then ran a 1:51.0 half-mile and added a 3:58.7 mile.

It is uncertain whether Liquori and Prefontaine will hook up in the same heat, because meet officials have not yet drawn for the heats. But both will be favored to advance to Saturday night's final.

Blaylock signs

MALDEN — Gary Blaylock, Jr., former Malden High School and Union University, Jackson baseball star, has signed a contract with the New York Mets organization. An 11th round draft choice of the Mets, young Blaylock was signed by Buddy Lewis, a Mets scout.

The formal signing of the contract was held at the Blaylock residence. Gary's father, Gary Blaylock Sr., was signed by the same Buddy Lewis to a St. Louis Cardinal contract back in 1949.

Gary Sr. pitched in the major leagues for the Cardinals and later for the New York Yankees. He is now a farm club manager and scout for the Kansas City Royals' organization.

Blaylock has played baseball for the past three years at Union University, Jackson, Tenn. He just finished the current college season with a .350 batting average and a new school record of 36 home runs compiled over a three year period. The old Union record was 26 homers.

Playing first base, Blaylock blasted three roundtrippers in one game while playing in an NAIA tournament. He ranked first in the Mid- South area for home runs this year and second in the nation for home runs for a small college.

Shortly after signing his contract, Blaylock left for St. Petersburg, Fla., where the two rookie clubs of Marion, Va., and Batavia, N. Y. will be formed.

Phillips resigns

Jack Phillips, head football coach of the Malden Green Waves, has resigned to accept the same position at Westview High School in Weakley County, Tenn. Westview is a new established school just three years old and is three miles from Martin.

Coach Phillips takes an impressive record to a school whose record last year was won-1; tied-1; and lost- 8.

He played college football at the University of Tennessee at Martin and to both he and Mrs. Phillips, this was like going home.

NHL hall of fame

MONTREAL (AP) — Doug Harvey, an All-Star 13 times in his colorful National Hockey League career, was one of five men selected Wednesday for induction into the Hockey Hall of Fame.

Also named to the Hall by the selection committee were Chuck Rayner, a goalie who won the Hart Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player in 1949-50; the late Tommy Smith, who played with seven clubs from 1906 through 1920; Frank Udvari, a former referee who now is the NHL's supervisor of officials, and Hartland de M. Molson, a former owner of the Montreal Canadiens.

Harvey, Rayner and Smith were named as players, Udvari and Molson in the category of builders. The announcement came during the annual NHL meetings here.

The five will be formally inducted in ceremonies to be held at the Hall in Toronto in August.

Crenshaw no. one amateur

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Maybe it's the exuberance of youth, but amateur Ben Crenshaw is one of the few players who appears unawed by the super tough greens at Oakmont Country Club.

The 21-year-old Crenshaw was considered the No. 1 amateur contender in the 73rd U.S. Open, which began today. The blond University of Texas golfer was the low amateur in this year's Masters, finishing in a tie for 24th.

During the three days of practice over the 6,921-yard Oakmont course, there were loud cries of anguish over the putting surfaces. But Crenshaw can't understand what all the excitement is about. He hasn't had any problem with the greens.

"I'll putt the greens well," said the confident Crenshaw, a two-time National Collegiate Athletic Association champion and runner-up in last year's National Amateur. "I like 'em. Sure, you have to be careful that you don't put the ball in places where you can't do anything but three putt. The greens are true if you get within range."

Royals take win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rich Coggins of Baltimore made two crucial mistakes as the Orioles dropped a 2-0 decision to Kansas City, but Manager Earl Weaver was far from critical of the young outfielder.

"People in Baltimore are spoiled," Weaver said after Wednesday night's game. "They don't see that very often."

Coggins misplayed the winning two-run double by Kansas City's Lou Piniella with two outs in the eighth inning, and his base running cost the Orioles at least one run in the third.

"Heck, kids are going to make mistakes," Weaver said. "Veterans make mistakes. You can't play all year without them."

Coggins hesitated before retreating on Piniella's hit, and then turned the wrong way before the slicing drive fell just out of reach and bounced off the right field fence.

The hit pinned the defeat on Dave McNally, whose 5-8 record includes four setbacks in which the Orioles have been shut out and two other losses in extra innings.

Coggins, always a center fielder before joining the Orioles last season, is still having difficulty in adjusting to the slices encountered in right.

In the third, Al Bumbry and Coggins opened with singles but Coggins was out trying to advance on the throw toward third base.

"I hesitated because I didn't think they'd try to get Bumbry," Coggins said. "After that, I should have gone back to first. But after the ball went over the cutoff man, I tried to make it."

Letters to the Editor
Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Editor:

I note in the "Standard" of June 7th, that Mr. W. T. Woods is back again on the attack of any and all who do not agree with him 100%.

He says I havy insulted him. I find this hard to understand as all I did was express the opinion that Mr. Woods is not completely omnipotent. Due to this shortcoming of Mr. Woods and his tendency to castigate any and all who disagree with him, I merely stated the location of the pain Mr. Woods gave me. (I still have the pain, same place.) From this mere statement Mr. Woods reads the message of a "cry for help" -- "a problem". He even goes on to comment on the size of the pain area. Mr. Woods further states "I cannot give executive clemency" -- I hadn't asked for "executive clemency".

Mr. Woods has repeatedly castigated the intelligence, morals, and all other facets of life and performances of Mr. Bond, Mississippi County's prosecuting attorney, and others. This apparently to his is perfectly legitimate because these too, do not see all things through Mr. Woods prejudicial view. Mr. Woods is an "elitist" -- one who likes to dish it out, but who cannot take it.

This is all I'm going to have to say on the subject, except to thank Mr. Woods for mentioning my firm name and location. I appreciate the advertising plug. Thank you.

Yours truly,

"I AM YOUR FLAG"
By Thomas E. Wicks, Sr.
Past Commander, 11th District
Dept. of Mo.,
The American Legion

I am your Flag.
I was born on June 14, 1777.

I am more than just cloth shaped into a design.

I am the refuge of the world's oppressed people.

I am the silent sentinel of Freedom.

I am the emblem of the greatest sovereign nation on earth.

I am the inspiration for which American Patriots gave their lives and fortunes.

I have led your sons into battle from Valley Forge to the bloody ridges of Korea.

I walk in silence with each of your Honored Dead, to their final resting place beneath the silent white crosses, row upon row.

I have flown through Peace and War, Strife and Prosperity, and amidst it all I have been respected.

My red stripes -- symbolize the blood spilled in defense of this glorious nation.

My white stripes -- signify the burning tears shed by Americans who lost their sons.

My blue field -- is indicative of God's heaven under which I fly.

My stars -- clustered together unify 50 states as one, for God and Country.

"Old Glory" is my nickname, and proudly I wave on high.

Honor me, respect me, defend me with your lives and your fortunes.

Never let my enemies tear me down from my lofty position, lest I never return.

Keep alight the fires of patriotism, strive earnestly for the spirit of democracy.

Worship Eternal God and keep His commandments, and I shall reamain the bulwark of peace and freedom for all mankind.

The number of infants being killed is getting larger everyday. Yet we people as a group close our eyes and are silent and act as if nothing is happening.

If you want to really be concerned about our community find out how many of our future citizens are being slaughtered before they have a chance to live. I say fight for something worth while. Fight for Life.

Yours truly,
Clem Scheffer Jr.

HARMFUL HEARINGS?

THE ISSUE: Prosecutor Archibald Cox's request for termination of the Watergate hearings.

Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox is reported to have asked that the Ervin committee call off its Watergate hearings. Cox, so the report goes, got turned down cold by committee counsel Samuel Dash.

Even so, we think Cox is right. The Watergate hearings ought to be terminated; they have the potential of doing more harm to the nation than good.

The prosecutor reasons that the ongoing hearings are apt to make his job harder for him. By securing limited immunity for key witnesses like John W. Dean and Jeb Stuart Magruder, the committee forecloses the chance that Cox can prosecute those witnesses on any charge he thinks warranted.

Of course, immunity is an old stratagem of prosecutors themselves. Get one witness who will sing, and you may round up a whole flock of canaries. But the Ervin committee is acting independently of the judicial process. Sen. Ervin, not prosecutor Cox, is determining who shall have immunity, and in the face of what charges.

Another difficulty for Cox is assuring "the Watergate 500" (as they are jocularly being called in Washington) a fair trial. So much evidence has been adduced already during the committee hearings that the resulting publicity could provide any convicted defendant the right of appeal. He could claim he had been tried already in the press and before the Ervin committee.

But there is another, more subjective reason why the hearings may be doing more harm than good. Allegations, charges, counter- charges swarm and buzz before the committee like angry mosquitoes. Numerous men in public life have already been bitten. But did they deserve it? None can say with certainty. At many points, sworn testimony clashes against sworn testimony, and there is no way of telling who is right. Hearsay evidence — inadmissible in a court of law — is presented, and everyone listens attentively.

Meanwhile, the public is confused, perplexed, uncertain. the hearings drag on Robert Odle, James McCord, Bernard Barker, Alfred Baldwin, Gerald Alch: They have all spoken their pieces, but the protagonists in this drama — Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean, Mitchell — are a long way yet from being called. They could clear up much if they were called immediately; they will not be, however.

The net effect of the hearings, then, is to create public unease. That is why it is hard not to sympathize with those of our countrymen — they may, by now, be a majority — who simply are tuning Watergate out.

Ultimately, of course, Watergate has to be dealt with. The truth, however ugly, however damaging, has got to come out. But that is what courts are for. In court, the evidence flows in an orderly, procedural manner; no speculation, no hearsay is permitted; just the facts, ma'am.

It is the facts we need now — not the rumors, the hypotheses, and the neuroses, that the Ervin investigating committee currently is giving us.

FELIX R. McKNIGHT

Where is the law?

One of the worrisome offshoots of Watergate is the casual flouting of the law that daily goes on in the breathless quest for headlines and spicy televison lines for the Senate show.

Lost, somewhere, is the valid and venerable rule that holds grand jury proceedings to be secret. Grand jurors and court officials swear with upraised hand to uphold the privacy of investigative evidence prior to indictment, or no- billing.

But with amazing consistency we now get juicy previews of these proceedings, notably in the Washington Post and New York Times. The competitive duel between the two Eastern publications is all being carried out in the name of "the people's right to know," or something of that nature.

Anonymous "sources" continue to spill these secrets and the prospect of a fair trial for defendants becomes increasingly dim.

In Texas, a few folks would be sitting out contempt sentences in a jail cell if this rupture of law was committed. The first leak would be the last — both in federal and state courts. It is not only contempt of court, it also happens to be a penal code violation.

District Atty. Henry Wade advises that the state penalty for leaking a grand jury secret is a fine from $100 to $1,000 or a jail sentence up to six months. The Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure provide for a fine or imprisonment at the court's discretion.

It is naked nose- thumbing of the law; certainly of a system that guarantees innocence until proven guilty by a jury of peers or a court of law.

This same looseness applies to the Senate hearing where the rules of evidence seem to be floating in limbo from witness to witness.

Chairman Sam Ervin and other committee members frequently assure that no one is on trial and evidentiary rules do not apply as in a court of law. But, in just "looking for information" there has been a bundle of hearsay and extraneous talk from those sworn witnesses that courts would not permit.

Now comes special prosecutor Archibald cox, to ask that the Senate hearings be discontinued on the valid grounds that all of the televised testimony before the committee will imperil future trials of Watergate defendants. He is eminently correct, and why the matter hasn't surfaced before is a mystery. The Senate select committee will balk, The show must go on.

One of the recent headlines to flare from leaks states that Watergate prosecutors feel there is "justification" for calling President Nixon to answer questions before the federal grand jury investigating the case — all this, of course, "according to reliable government sources."

Obviously, the only "reliable government sources" with such information have to be those who have heard secret grand jury testimony. White House press secretary Ron Ziegler seemed justified in retorting:

"It reflects a shocking and irresponsible abuse of authority on the part of the prosecutors . . . grand jury proceedings are by law secret."

So it appears that these "reliable government sources," aware that the Constitution probably precludes calling an incumbent President before a grand jury, must settle by getting in their whacks in the Washington Post.

The unanswered question to all this is — why hasn't a federal court done something about these illegal leaks?

President Nixon, the clay pigeon in this affair, has directed new Attorney General Elliott Richardson and special Watergate prosecutor-investigator Archibald Cox to diligently pursue the trail to the source of the leaks.

The guilty of Watergate should be given proper punishment for burglary, invasion and perjury — in due process. But the shooting license issued to anonymous grand jury sources should be suspended. It is inimical to the country. —THE EDITOR

When the land is covered with ice and snow, an Eskimo hunter travels from one hunting ground to another. Eskimos measure time by igloos- one igloo representing one night. These igloos take about two hours to build. Starting with a circle, (10 blocks) and building from within, one block is placed at a time in rings on top, until the final block is on top. The hunter's wife usually chinks up the cracks inside with powdered snow. The last job is to make a wind tunnel to shield the doorway. The inside is lit by a soapstone lamp which burns seal oil.

The Miracle water refiner is carefully built from raw material to the totally engineered product for your home. Only the best material available is used. Constant tests in the laboratory and also in the field are in progress to assure you of the finest piece of water refining equipment available on the market today. Scramble on to be first with cotton

June 14, 1923

A residence owned by Theo. Slack and occupied by Lon Elkins and family near the west mill of the Scott County Milling Co., was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The family barely escaped with their lives.

Born to Dr. and Mrs. W.A. Anthony on June 8th, a daughter.

Tom Baty, who for several years was employed as salesman by the Sikeston Mercantile Co., resigned his position there last week and on Monday began work for The Scott County Milling Co., in charge of the farmer settlement department.

Dr. F.B. Blanton has added some new fixtures to the operating room of his dental parlors this week, adding both to the appearance and convenience of the room.

Martha W. Warren, pioneer resident of Cape Girardeau County, who in recent years had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. C.F. McMullin, died June 11, after an illness of about 10 days.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday for Fred Bray, who fell Friday while painting at the Simpson Colonail Tavern on Highway 61, near Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Matilda Holland, for many years a resident of Sikeston, died in the Odd Fellows Home, Liberty, Mo., Sunday, according to word received here today.

The annual scramble for first honors in the cotton game around Sikeston is on with one claimant on file for top honors. He is Harrison Darter, farming on the W.B. Simpson land, north of Sikeston, who stated Friday that a few cotton squares were already forming on his acreage.

Mrs. Bert Gentry entertained at her home Monday with a brithday party for her daughter, Anne, in celebration of her ninth birth anniversary.

Harold Bean, who acquired ownership of the Rustic Rock Inn on Highway 61, the first of June, is now operating the business.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dumey Sunday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape. The child has been named Kenneth Michael. Mr. Dumey is employed at Juneau, Alaska.

Jimmy Keasler celebrated his ninth birthday Thursday by inviting a group of friends to a swim party, afterward taking them to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Keasler, for refreshments.

Paul Marion Jones, 48 years of age, died Sunday in the St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau, where he had been taken following a stroke suffered that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn Smith, 188 Tanner, are parents of a baby boy born on the 15th at St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau. He is the second child and son of the Smiths. His brother is Richard Linn, three years old. Dr. H.L. Smith, Sikeston, and Mr. and Mrs. T.G. Richey of Lilbourn are the grandparents.

In the Round Robin match played at Malden yesterday the Sikeston club swingers were almost white washed to the tune of 44 to 14. A highlight of the match was the playing of Kenny Vinson, who went around the course with one arm in a cast but played a good game swinging one-handed.

Robert Foster of Sikeston has leased the Russell Hotel in Charleston from Mrs. James Adams and George Marable, it was reported here today. He will take over operation of the hotel July 1 and change the name to The Charleston Hotel.

Dr. Handy L. Smith was elected third vice president of the Missouri State Dental Society in Kansas at a recent meeting.

Former Michigan State football coach Duffy Daughtery is now special assistant to MSU's vice president for development, Les Scott. Duffy will also be on TV next fall with ABC college football games, working with Chris Schenkel and Bud Wilkinson.

Justice Department files antitrust suit against Tesaco, Inc. and Costal State Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has moved to block what it says are illegal agreements between the nation's No. 1 petroleum refiner and its No. 1 independent source of gasoline and heating oil.

An agreement between Texaco Inc. and Coastal States Gas Producing Co. of Corpus Christi, Tex., restrains the sale of gasoline to independents, Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper said Tuesday in announcing a civil antitrust suit against the two corporations.

Announcement of the suit came a few hours after release of a national survey of major and independent gasoline service stations showed an increasing number were reducing operating hours for personnel reasons or short gasoline supplies.

Several congressmen have asserted that some 2,000 stations, mostly independents, have closed because of inadequate gasoline supplies.

Elsewhere in Washington Tuesday, two hearings on a reported gasoline shortage progressed as the White House announced that it expected to have the government's plans to conserve energy ready within a week or 10 days.

The survey was the second in a weekly series conducted by the American Automobile Association following what it says are conflicting "scare stories" about the amount of fuel available to motorists.

This week's survey of 1,989 stations along major travel routes in all states except Alabama and Alaska showed that 32 per cent of them are open fewer hours during the week and on weekends, when many are closing one or both days.

Seven per cent of stations checked are limiting gasoline purchases, matching the first week's survey of 1,439 stations.

The AAA said 64 per cent of the stations checked by local AAA branches were operating normally. That was down from the 75 per cent last week.

Less than half of one per cent were closed, the AAA said.

Texaco, the suit said, "with one exception, maintains a policy not to sell gasoline to independent marketers." Texaco's purchase of the Coastal refinery and the other agreements, the complaint alleges, would cut off a substantial source of supply, primarily to independents; eliminate competition between the two in making and selling No. 2 oil; lessen independents' price competition; eliminate Coastal as a substantial factor in refining and selling gasoline and No. 2 oil; erect barriers to newcomers to the oil industry and substantially increase the concentration of the refining and marketing business.

In New York, a spokesman for Texaco issued a statement defending the agreements and saying they were entered into "to make available to the consuming public additional supplies of petroleum products." Texaco said that under the agreements it buys only 11 per cent of Coastal States' capacity, and that this will increase to 37 per cent by the end of the year.

A spokesman for Coastal States said in Houston: "The company views the contracts with Texaco as fully valid and proper ...."

Summaries of the AA finding by region included:

Southwest

Of 181 stations in New Mexico, Texas., Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, 64 per cent had normal operations, 34 per cent were limiting hours and 6 per cent were allocating. A 100 per cent or greater increase in the percentage of stations limiting hours and-or allocating was reported, from 17 per cent to 34 per cent in limiting hours and from 2 to 6 per cent in limiting amounts.

Midwest

Of 99 stations in Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, 58 per cent had normal operations, with 39 per cent limiting hours and nine per cent allocating. Conditions were "very spotty," with both cutbacks and oversupply reported. This region has been tagged by the Office of Emergency Preparedness as the most vulnerable to any gasoline shortage, "possibly next month."

New England

Of 111 stations, 64 per cent had normal operations, with 31 per cent limiting their hours and 12 per cent allocating gasoline. More early closings were experienced than last week, but supplies were said to be good.

New York-New Jersey

Of 168 stations, 81 per cent had normal operations, 16 per cent were limiting hours and 5 per cent were allocating. Spot shortages of low-lead gasoline were reported. Some dealers reported being allowed to draw against the next month's quota: "If the shortages is real, this development could exacerbate July supply problems, making it the showdown month."

Middle Atlantic

Of 293 stations in Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia 68 per cent had normal operations, 24 per cent were limiting hours and 5 per cent were allocating. This region "remains better than the nation over-all, and prices remain generally stable."

Of 375 stations from Kentucky to Mississippi to Florida, 60 per cent had normal operations,

What's the law?

The case of the unlucky number

By Jack Struass, LL.B.

Wilbur found trying to earn a living honestly quite a trial. When he tried to earn a living dishonestly, he found it even more of a trial. He was picked up by the police for his illegal activities and was required to stand trial for three sweltering days while a jury listened to the evidence against him.

Instead of a verdict, however, all the trial produced was confusion. It seemed that 13 votes were cast by the jury instead of the usual 12. The reason? Someone had carelessly permitted an alternate juror into the locked jury room and he had cast the extra vote.

Without ado, the extra juror was bounced out of the jury room and the remaining jurors proceeded to find Wilbur guilty of the crimes charged.

"Now just one little old minute," protested Wilbur. "Thirteen is my unlucky number. Since the law says that a man is to be tried by a jury of 12, by permitting an extra person in the jury room to deliberate on my fate was in violation of my rights. Consequently, I demand a new trial."

"Only 12 jurors did decide his fate," responded the district attorney. "And as a matter of fact, until the 13th juror was discovered and ejected from the jury room, he was fighting tooth and nail for Wilbur's acquital. Therefore, Wilbur has nothing to complain about. He received more than a fair trial."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant superstitious Wilbur a new trial?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a defendant is entitled by law to have his case determined by 12 jurors and no more.

BLOOMFIELD — A Bloomfield youth was injured in a traffic accident at 7:25 p.m. Tuesday when flash flooding produced by heavy rain covered Route D three miles east of Bloomfield.

The highway patrol investigated and said the accident occurred when Gary David Lilly, 18, of Bloomfield came upon the water across the highway, applied his brakes, skidded into the water and overturned.

Injured was a passenger, Randal Hutchinson, 18, of Bloomfield. He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital for treatment of a severe back cut.

The Castaneda brothers riding at Aqueduct and Belmont are from Bogota, Colombia. They are 22-year-old Marco and 16-year-old Kelly. Kelly Castaneda was christened Hernando.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor
c/o Mailbox
Sikeston Standard:

June 12, 1973

Dear Editor Charles:

I'm enclosing a letter from our former Pastor at 1st Baptist Church that I think and so do many others think it should be published for general public to read. You did run a couple articles on this controversy in your paper and a feature article on Rev. Hackney's ouster.

Well this article tells more concerning this Baptist controversy on the auditing of convention funds which news releases have failed to tell. Would you please print it in "The Mailbox". Rev. Hackney gave permission to have it printed.

The general public also need to know that a group of "Concerned Baptist", composed of Laymen, Ministers, and Baptist women are pursuing this for further investigation and audit — Thanks — It's a letter to all Board Members and Baptist Leaders:

John W. Davis
P.O. Box 115
one of the group

the letter is attached below.

May 29, 1973

Dear Fellow Board Members,

Much has been written and said recently relative to problems within our Convention, particularly those problems relating to Dr. Harding and the Executive Office.

You have heard by this time concerning my ouster as Chairman of the Executive Committee and you have received a report of the Executive Committee (11 pages long) dated May 21, 1973.

The report from the Executive Committee does in no way clear up the problems which exist. There still remains unaccountable and unaudited funds, Dr. Harding's house financed with interest free money, ($62,500 of Missouri Baptist money) which was never reported to the Board, and many other problems related to staff morale and the spirit in our Convention across the State. We have been habitually behind with our Cooperative Program gifts from Jefferson City to Nashville, with a check arriving on May 10th in Nashville dated March 30th.

Frankly, I don't think that we as Board members want to ignore these problems. It is just simply a matter of facing them. I have had to make the choice between "loyalty and integrity." I have been loyal to Dr. Harding and the State office for 19 years. I have served on many committees and boards and have defended Dr. Harding on many issues. But I had to come to the "moment of truth" after getting the facts and documented evidence. I continue to remain a loyal Missouri Baptist but my conscience will no longer permit me to tolerate our present administrative policies and procedures. I say this as a prayerful and a concerned Baptist.

I am not the only one who has raised questions. The recent report which you received would give that impression. Please contact Dan Bryson of Clinton, James Joslin of Springfield, Richard Wallis of Kansas City, Homer DeLozier of St. Louis, Nelson Duke of Jefferson City, and Arthur Mallory of Jefferson City. Four of these men are on the Executive Committee and two of them are Convention officers. Bryson, Joslin, Wallis and Mallory (the Executive Committee members) voted against my ouster as Committee Chairman. Dr. DeLozier and Duke had no vote but I know how they would have voted.

I still have faith in the integrity of Missouri Baptists. God has blessed us and will continue to do so, contingent upon our willingness to face truth and act accordingly.

The Executive Board has great fiscal and moral responsibility. Our people are counting upon us.

You may want to contact our auditor, Mr. Ernest Wolfe of Jefferson City. To a few of us in January he stated that Missouri Baptists are on a bankruptcy course. We owe more than $1,000,000 to the Building Fund. We are now deficit spending every month, leaving our books open the first ten days of each month just to try and "catch up." Believe me, this is serious!

God bless you as you pray, further investigate and act. Time is of the essence on this matter.

I hope this letter sounds blunt but not bitter, concerned but not crude, anxious but not anti- everything. This is my intent.

Concerned fellow
board member,
James W. Hackney

Dear Editor:

In the attempt by Missouri legislators to understand the budgeting procedures and expenses of the University of Missouri, one highly unfortunate criticism of the University has been made. We refer to the question of the services offered the approximately 21 persons with the title of Professor Emeritus. Persons with this title are those senior professors with long and distinguished records at the University who have reached between age 65 and 70 and been retired. - As a small compensation for their outstanding services, the University provides them with an office, often a cubby- hole, and the use of secretarial help when needed. Many of these professors do not avail themselves of these services, for they move away or turn to other activities or prefer to work in their studies at home.

But those who do remain on are active, productive scholars who just happen to be 65 years or older. From the outside, it might appear that these professors are free- loading on tax money and obtaining services for which they render nothing. But the story from inside the University is substantially another matter.

Here are a few of the benefits which the University of Missouri receives from the active Emeritus Professors. Their extensive personal libraries are often used to loan books to students who cannot find them at the library, a courtesy done with kindness and generosity. They serve on dissertation committees, and sometimes direct dissertations. (In fact, one of the many difficulties of the newly- proposed doctoral faculty selection procedures may be that these professors will be prevented from acting on or directing dissertations of students when they may be the most qualified person among the professors in the field of the student.) They write or co-write with junior faculty, books for which the University receives credit and status, something which this University is badly in need of at this time. They direct on-going research for which they have obtained funds, grants from which the University receives a generous over- head payment, at times often in excess of the annual retirement salary which the professor receives. They may lecture and teach, not on the full- time level of the non- retired professors, but nevertheless on a fairly regular basis.

They teach special courses, they will lecture on a specific topic in another person's class, and they help out when others are ill or away. They are available for consultation by both students and younger faculty colleagues. They make contact for younger faculty in Federal and State bureaucracies granting funds for research. They do research of value to the society. They participate in community activities of value to us all, but most certainly to the enhancement of the status of the University. And, finally, they write innumerable letters of recommendation concerning both former and present students, one of the reasons why secretarial help is granted.

In the Department of Sociology where one of the undersigned is appointed, there are two Professors Emeritus who keep regular office hours and participate actively in the scholarly business of the University. One has a research proposal at the present time which has been approved and will presumably be funded when the money appropriated is released. The other has published two books this year, one in collaboration with a young assistant professor. Both have been directing dissertations, sitting on dissertation committees and consulting and teaching since their retirement. How shortsighted to suggest that their office space and secretarial help be denied! They are worth their weight in gold to young students, to other faculty members, to the University and to the citizens of Missouri.

Also unfortunate is the comparison of Professors Emereti with retired Army officers. While it may be true that such officers do not get minimum office space and incidental secretarial help, their retirement benefits, financial and medical, far outsdistance those of retired professors who have never received subsistence and family allowances, clothing allowances, full medical and dental care for themselves and family, large discounts on post exchanges, cheaper insurance, elaborate club facilities, moving expenses, full pay on leave, earlier retirements at higher income, continued medical benefits including hospitalization throughout retired life, all of which directly or indirectly have cost the citizens billions of dollars and made for the most powerful interest group in the nation. The retired university professor finds inflation eating away at his retirement allowance, which is not tied to a cost- of- living escalation arrangement, and his widow, who receives a reduced share is left with an income that, without supplement, will hardly see her through to the end of her days. Rather than crabbing about the minuscule cost of rendering a few benefits (which return a harvest of post-retirement services to the university) the legislators should look at the REAL problem of retired faculty, their shrinking retirement dollars.

Sincerely yours,
Ellen H. Biddle,

Dear Editor:

The only reason the world accepted our U.S. paper dollar for years is because it was" ... as good as gold." It was backed by gold! But now our "great" monetary experts have given most of our gold away for foreign aid and dozens of other pet Congressional projects. The dollar has become just another "piece of paper." It isn't backed by anything except impossible promises to pay. As a result the income and savings of thrifty Senior Citizens are being embezzled and destroyed.

There is lots of big talk about the energy crisis and how in 10 or 12 years we will be obliged to pay the Arabs maybe $30 Billion a year for oil. Pay with what? The Arabs don't just want fiat paper money, and rightly so. If we don't have gold or gold backed redeemable paper dollars, we "ain't" going to buy any Arab oil. U.S. irredeemable paper money isn't going to buy oil or anything else 10 or 12 years from now if Congress and the Administration keep spending beyond income -- and I doubt they will stop.

If you don't think inflation is dangerous and a steak costs too much now, please consider what a steak would have cost at the end of the German inflation when it took 42 billion marks (formerly valued at 24 cents each) to buy one U.S. penny. Frightening but true!

Sincerely,
C.C. Moseley, President

Dear Sir:

Something has come on the legislative scene that I feel is worth telling about; simply because it all sounds so inocuous especially since it is in connection with all this ecology bit.

The latest horror being considered, as per the NEW YORK TIMES a few Sundays ago is a report headed by Laurance Rockefeller that cites as of "major importance" the concept "that henceforth 'development rights' on private property must be regarded as being vested in the community and its well- being rather than in the fact of ownership." It "urged regulation of development in a degree at odds with traditional commercial practices." This, I understand, is all incorporated in a "land use planning" bill.

A few years ago, a teenager made it into TIME magazine when his dad was fined because his tree house didn't meet the local building code. Wait until someone makes the media by being fined for planting parsley without a permit! If people don't want the government in their backyards, a letter to their Congressmen might help.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Harry Bock

Open meetings bill is nearing passage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Agreement on a bill to require all government units to hold open meetings appeared certain today after House and Senate conferees resolved their differences.

Wednesday conferees tentatively agreed that those voting yes and no would be named so the public would know how each person voted.

The conference committee also reached tentative agreement that arrest records of persons not charged with a crime after being arrested or those against whom charges were dismissed without prosecution could not be made available for public inspection.

The revised version of the bill was being drafted Wednesday night, and the committee was expected to take action today before sending the bill back to both houses for approval of the changes.

Meanwhile House and Senate conferees have been working to resolve differences in the reorganization bill in unofficial meetings. The House defeated Tuesday the bill to reorganize the executive branch.

An official conference committee is expected to be called to reconsider the bill. As yet the Senate has not granted the House request for that conference, although members from both houses have been working on the bill.

In a night session Wednesday the Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill removing the $50,000 limit on damages that could be awarded in wrongful death suits.

Included in the bill is language saying a jury shall award damages for wrongful death that will "fairly compensate" for the loss of the person killed.

Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, led unsuccessful opposition to the bill saying it could result in astronomical awards that could cause insurance companies to increase their rates.

The Senate defeated a bill that would have required candidates to be listed in order of filing instead of being alternately listed on paper ballots.

Two major tax bills were acted upon Wednesday.

The governor signed into law a bill allowing the governing bodies of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City to levy a half-cent sales tax for transportation. Any other city with less than 500 persons could levy the tax on a public vote.

About $19 million is expected to be raised annually in St. Louis city and county and $7 million is expected to be earned from the tax in Kansas City.

"The measure is designed to insure continued operation of public systems in in the Kansas City and St. Louis areas, as well as to provide for other transportation needs as determined by local governments," Gov. Christopher S. Bond said. "It is my sincere hope that this measure will provide improved services and reduce fares, particularly in the St. Louis area."

The bill enables financing of the Bi-State Bus System in St. Louis and the Kansas City Area Transportation Authority. The tax would remain in effect until Dec. 31, 1975.

Also sent to the governor was a bill to make sure the ATA sales tax, already in effect, continues at least through Sept. 30, 1975. Sponsors said the second bill was needed in case the St. Louis tax ended up in a court battle, thereby affecting Kansas City which is included in the bill.

In a night session, the Senate approved House amendments to a park levy bill and that, too, goes to the governor.

The bill allows St. Louis

Nixon freezes prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has frozen all consumer prices for 60 days, jolting an inflation-plagued economy with a surprise shock treatment while buying time to build a tougher wage-price control system.

Wages were not frozen by the President. Neither were rents, interest and dividends or raw agricultural products at the farm level.

But Nixon told the nation in a television-radio address Wednesday night that all other prices paid for goods and services during the next two months cannot exceed prices that prevailed in the June 1-8 base period.

Congressional action is required for proposed export controls and other supporting elements of the President's fourth attempt in two years to curb inflationary pressures. But the price freeze went into effect Wednesday night when he signed an executive order.

Unless lifted sooner, the freeze expires Aug. 12. By then, Nixon said, he will have ready "a new and more effective system of controls" to replace Phase 3—a limited system which his economic advisers admitted was a failure.

Phase 4 controls, Nixon said, "will involve tighter standards and more mandatory compliance procedures than under Phase 3" and will include special measures to stabilize retail food and gasoline prices.

Members of Congress had mixed reactions to the President's moves.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, voiced some reservations but said he would withdraw for 90 days his pending Senate amendment to freeze wages, prices and consumer interest rates.

Republicans generally supported the President. "Right on target," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Democrats were less enthusiastic. "I'm fearful that it may not be broad enough," said House Speaker Carl Albert.

Leading economists were split, too.

"Too little, too late, too complicated, too political," said noted economist Eliot Janeway.

"It's a definite improvement," said top University of Pennsylvania economist, Dr. Lawrence R. Klein.

Nixon told the nation in his 15-minute address from the Oval Office that the economy is strong—"we are in the middle of one of the biggest, strongest booms in our history."

But for a variety of reasons, he said, "prices are going up at unacceptably high rates and the great part of this increase is due to rising food prices."

He then outlined his price freeze as part of what he called "bold yet sensible policies to meet our temporary problems." Other elements of the President's program include:

Bomb threat is hoax

MARSTON — A bomb threat from an anonymous telephone caller this morning at Associated Electrical Cooperative in St. Jude Industrial Park proved to be a hoax following evacuation of the building and a thorough search of the power plant.

Charlie Price, power plant manager, said there were no known reasons or explanations to account for the call. "We have had no incidents at all in the past few weeks, no problems, nobody has been fired and there is absolutely no reason I can come up with," he said.

All employes not essential to keep the plant in operation were immediately sent home. A search was made of the entire plant by supervisory employes and nothing was found, Price said.

Control operator Jerry Neighbors received the call at 7:40 a.m. He reported the caller first asked for Price and, when told Price had not arrived, the caller asked for Bill Jerome. When the caller was told Jerome was not in, Neighbors reported he then said he had something important to tell them.

The caller was requested to call back in about 10 minutes when Price and Jerome were expected.

The caller reportedly said, "No, I don't want to call back. It might be a good idea to evacuate the plant. There might be a bomb in it," and then he said, "I have to go," and hung up.

Price said employes sent home today would report back to work Friday.

Landfill site chosen

BLOOMFIELD— The city of Bloomfield has signed a contract with Lemmons Brother's Company of Dexter for use of their 75-acre landfill site one and one half miles north of Dexter.

Bloomfield is meeting a state law that requires a sanitary landfill open and in operation by July 1. After this time, no open pit dumping will be allowed.

The city has agreed to pay a rate of $1.94 per person in the city which has a total population of 1,584 persons. This amounts to a total of $3,072.96. The Bloomfield trash truck will also be required to pay a gate fee of $4 per load.

These costs will be paid from the city's revenue sharing funds. Bloomfield is one of the few cities that does not charge for trash pickup.

Man in underwear picked up

Police picked up an elderly man about 8:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Dairy Queen restaurant, 2021 E. Malone, after he was seen walking around the building in his underwear.

Police said he was taken back to his family which lives on Reuben Street.

At 7 a.m. today the man was found sleeping on a neighbor's porch. He told police he had forgotten where he lived. He was taken home again by officers.

Anniston's only station out of gas

By TIM LUDWIG

ANNISTON— The story of W.H. Blumenberg is not unique in this time of gas shortages and fuel cutbacks to independent service station owners, but it is of vital interest to him and to many residents of Anniston. Blumenberg is, or at least was until a week ago, the owner and operator of Anniston's only service station.

The fuel shortage hadn't made much difference in Anniston until about three weeks ago. Then Blumenberg's regular pumps went dry. At that time, his contract with MFA Oil Co. had just expired, and neither they nor any other dealers would take on more customers.

Most farmers in the Anniston area run their machinery on diesel fuel, but some needed gasoline for special operations. They had to turn to Blumenberg's dwindling supply of ethyl to fuel their equipment. Two weeks later, that ran out too, and those farmers who did not have diesel machines were forced to look elsewhere for their much-needed fuel.

Blumenberg has operated his station for 18 years in Anniston. During those years, he has been almost the sole supplier for that town's cars and tractors. Now, all there is to do is sit at the station talking to friends about the gas situation while he waits for a promised call from a possible new supplier.

Part of this waiting time Blumenberg spends out where the cars used to gas up, building gates for his Anniston home and a farm he and his wife keep in Kentucky.

The shady, outdoor workshop is now a forum for ideas and complaints about the gas shortage. Blumenberg tells his friends about his hopes for a quick end to the dry tanks, since he has contacted former Governor Warren E. Hearnes and Rep. Bill D. Burlison about the problem.

He says they are both trying to help get Anniston's gas pumps flowing again, but right now he's still waiting for that phone call that will tell him and Anniston's residents that gasoline is on the way.

Crash injures 2

Two persons were slightly injured in an accident at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 60 four miles west of Sikeston after a heavy rain. The car in the bottom picture, driven east by Otis Kyle of Bloomfield, hit a patch of water and struck the station wagon, which was driven west by Golden Koontz of Troy, Ohio. Koontz and a passenger, Geraldine Koontz, were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

1 killed, 13 hurt

One person was killed and 13 injured Wednesday in six area traffic accidents, the highway patrol reported today.

Robert Lee Taylor, 29, of Kennett died in a three- car crash at 7:55 p.m. three miles east of Kennett on Highway 84.

The accident occurred when a van driven by Claude Melvin Elliot, 67, of Kennett pulled from a side road into the path of Taylor's westbound auto. The right front of the Taylor car struck the left rear of the Elliot vehicle, which then struck a bridge railing and stopped in the westbound lane.

Taylor's auto then crossed into the path of an eastbound car driven by Alice Fay Bridges, 19, of Hayti. The front end of the Bridges car struck the left side of the Taylor car and continued on to strike the bridge railing.

Elliot received internal injuries and bruises. Also injured in the Elliot van were Terry James Lytle, 11, of Kennett, cuts and bruises, and Randy Lytle, 8, of Kennett, broken ankle.

The Birdges woman suffered a broken leg and bruises, and a passenger, Doyle Wayne Bridges, received cuts and bruises.

All five of the injured were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Paul Plafcan, 67, of St. Louis received severe cuts at 1:30 p.m. on Interstate 55 one mile south of Miner when the car in which he was a passenger, parked on the shoulder during a heavy rain, was struck from behind by a car driven by Shirley Grassel, 35, of Florissant.

The driver of the parked car, Daryl Young, 18, of Montrose, Iowa, received facial cuts. Both he and Plafcan were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Pamela Dawn Vandiver, 16, of Oak Ridge received bruises on the head at 6:30 p.m. on Route D two miles north of Jackson when she ran off the road and overturned. She was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Two persons were slightly injured in a two- car collision at 1:15 p.m. four miles west of Sikeston on Highway 60.

FLAG DAY,
JUNE 14

President Woodrow Wilson's eloquent address on Flag Day, June 14, 1917 is an effective reminder to all of the significance of Old Glory:

"We meet to celebrate Flag Day because this flag which we honor and under which we serve is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation. It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation. The choice is ours. It floats in majestic silence above the hosts that execute those choices whether in peace or war. And yet, though silent, it speaks to us — speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us and of the records they wrote upon it. We celebrate the day of its birth, and from its birth until now it has witnessed a great history, has floated on high the symbol of great events, of a great plan of life worked out by a great people ..."

The American desire to maintain a high standard of living will require that all Americans make their work count for more, Washington publisher Austin H. Kiplinger has told leaders of American industry. A National Association of Manufacturers editorial says Mr. Kiplinger asserted that "we would have to improve our productivity in order to warrant the rate we pay our labor and the prices we put on our products and services." Pulitzer prize winning financial columnist Joseph A. Livingston, speaking on the same panel, expressed concern that the American appetite for goods and materials has vastly increased our imports while exports have not increased on the same scale. This points up the fact that all Americans should concentrate on making bigger and better productivity gains in the year 1973.

Clean houses seldom burn, and clean ranges and furnaces seldom set fire to houses. High on the list of causes of home fires, reports the National Fire Protection Association, is dirty, defective heating and cooking equipment. In Spring Clean-Up activities, have your heating and cooking equipment serviced and repaired; make sure the chimney is clean and tight; remove grease from the kitchen exhaust fan system; and make sure any room heaters fueled with kerosene or oil are clean and in sound working condition before they are used at vacation camps or put away until next Winter.

A MAN'S (NEXT)
WORLD, TOO?

Pollsters in Germany recently asked the searching question: "If you came back to earth for a second life would you rather be a man or a woman?"

A surprising 26 per cent of the women queried said they would rather be a man the second time around, 13 per cent were indifferent and 61 per cent said they were glad to be girls.

Only 8 per cent of the men said they would prefer to be of the fair sex if they had the choice, 4 per cent had no opinion one way or the other while an overwhelming 88 per cent were glad to be men.

EAGLETON FOR SENATOR

With the official announcement last week by former Governor Hearnes that he will support and work for the re-election of Tom Eagleton as United States Senator, the Democratic party of Missouri seems to be headed toward a unification of purpose that will take that fine young man back to Washington for another six years.

Earlier, there had been vague rumors that Hearnes might oppose Eagleton for the nomination. That would have been regrettable, and probably disastrous for the party in Missouri, and perhaps for whoever won the nomination.

The Appeal editor, without reservations, endorses Senator Eagleton.

Not in our time has Missouri had a young official who has made a more outstanding record in his first term as a U. S. Senator.

With this top record back of him and with his popularity throughout the United States, as well as in Missouri, he has greater influence in national affairs than any other first term U. S. Senator we can recall.

Missouri and the nation will be the heavy loser if Tom Eagleton is not returned to the Senate.

Criminal violations of the antitrust laws should be taken out of the petty cash category.

That would appear to be the viewpoint of the nation's independent business people, as voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, they vote support for S. B. 782. This proposed legislation, introduced by Senator John Tunney (D) of California and Senator Edward Gurney (R) of Florida would raise the maximum fine that could be assessed.

Instead of the present $50,000 limit, the bill provides for a maximum fine of $100,000 for guilty individuals and $500,000 for corporations.

It is held that the present $50,000 fine limit, adopted in 1955 no longer serves as an effective deterrent.

The vote shows 57 per cent support this new limit, 27 per cent opposed, with 16 per cent undecided. Only in Alaska and Wyoming did the proposal fail to get a majority.

In Missouri the vote was 55 supporting this measure with 28 per cent opposed and 17 per cent undecided.

The merry month of May was apparently not very merry for the nation's independent business firms as the Labor Department agents turned harsher in the enforcement of the regulations that were drawn up from the Occupational Safety and Health law.

This is indicated by the continuous field survey of the National Federation of Independent Business which shows that while the percentage of respondents reporting an inspection during May held to the year long average of about 6 per cent per month, the increase in assessments levied jumped 66 per cent over the first quarter of the year.

On a national average 41 per cent of the inspected enterprises were held in violation of OSHA rules as drawn up by the Labor Department, and 30 per cent were assessed. In the first quarter of the year 33 per cent were found in violation, but only 18 per cent were assessed.

The assessments include both the fines levied and the cost of complying with the on the spot edicts of the Labor Department agents.

May was also a month unmerry for independent retailers as the agents started apparently concentrating on this segment of the business world.

The NFIB survey results show that independent retailers found in violation incurred an average bill of $6,436, topping independent wholesalers whose average cost was $4,254, manufacturers with an average cost of $5,994, and service firms with an average cost of $3,729.

Independent transportation firms were hit the hardest with an average cost of $12,000 followed by construction firms with $6,820.

The costs levied in May against retail establishments is a more than 300 per cent increase over the first quarter of the year. Many minor items go into these assements, such as failure to have an OSHA poster on display, not providing separate toilet facilities for men and women in the very smallest stores, not having coat hooks in the toilets, or having stair railings that are not the prescribed 34 inches off the steps.

Independent business people, faced with the regulations that have been issued, and are continually being issued by the Labor Department under the Occupational Safety and Health act are more and more reaching a viewpoint that in back of many regulations there is a hidden profit motive with some segments of the economy seeking to reap dividends out of the regulations.

A Massachusetts manufacturer expresses this opinion quite bluntly saying, "In the lighting field there is pressure for OSHA to adopt ANSI standards and enforce minimum light levels contained therein. The ANSI standards are largely written by the IES which is primarily supported and directed by the large power and light companies along with fixture and lamp manufacturers. Thus their promotional efforts are now being adopted and given force of law when in fact they may be unnecessary or irrelevant to safety. To the extent this same procedure of adopting and legalizing standards which are primarily promotional gimmicks of various industries - heating and ventilating, plumbing, et cetera - OSHA is building into the American economy extra costs which will contribute to further depreciation of the dollar and America's power to compete. Safety is one thing; over-protection may prove to be a dangerous something else."

A Texas newspaper publisher even goes further, alleging that the enforcement of OSHA is accompanied by fraud and conspiracy saying, "We hope such organizations as NFIB aren't too late with too little to offset the horrifying damages being afflicted by union- dominated Washington and conglomerate cooperation against one of the nation's few remaining domains of integrity, patriotism and enterprise - the small and medium sized businesses of the nation. The OSHA's should be answered by court action and indictments where fraud and conspiracy are shown."

The owner of an Iowa hardware store says, "I would like to urge the Federation to continue to work hard to alleviate the situation we are in concerning the OSHA law. More than that, however, I think the law as it now stands is too impractical even for large businesses to follow. The writing of the regulations should be changed, even more than who they should include."

An Illinois metal fabricator reports, "It is my recommendation that small companies (5 or less employees) be exempt from OSHA regulations due to the fact that most of us can not totally meet the requirements and when inspected will then be forced to lay off our employees and perform what work we, as owner's, can handle. My margin of profit at the present time does not allow for a lot of renovations in my equipment and building."

A partner in a Colorado CPA firm says, "We feel that the legislation which empowers the penalties set up under OSHA is the worst piece of legislation that was ever written, because penalties may be imposed against the businessman without a hearing or prior warning. Inspectors have full right to come onto a businessman's premises, make an inspection and levy fines without even a trial or a hearing to establish the businessman's guilt, whether it be intentional or just an oversight. The businessman has no defense against these people other than spending much time and many dollars to get a hearing in a district court. To the small businessman OSHA is almost an impossibility to live with because the law is written so as to take an attorney to interpret it and even the attorneys are not sure in some instances what would be necessary for the businessman to come into compliance. We feel that appropriate legislation should be enacted to give the businessman the right to call for inspections for compliance without penalties and, after these inspections, be given a reasonable length of time to come into compliance with the law; thus the businessman will be able to find out in what areas he is not in compliance and come into compliance without having to go through court to get injunctive relief."

While undoubtedly some of the stories circulating concerning the alleged gestapo tactics of Labor Department safety and health inspectors are magnified, there appears to be enough substance to create fear in the independent business community.

A Washington state jeweler comments, "I would like to know more about the Occupational Safety and Health Act. We have heard some weird stories of fines being levied for oddball infractions of the act."

BATTLE OF THE BUDGET

By monopolizing nearly all of the attention of the press and the public which is normally directed toward events in Washington, the Watergate charges and sensationalism may make it much more difficult to hold the line on federal expenditure this year. Sound- thinking citizens therefore need to redouble their efforts to keep the public informed and active with regard to the battle of the budget, so that it will not be lost by default.

Past and present experience clearly shows that when Congress and the bureaucrats are left mostly to themselves, with little or no pressure from public opinion, more and more

Earlier this year, a budget deficit of nearly $13 billion was anticipated for the coming fiscal year. But on May 22 Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent announced that the expected deficit for fiscal 1974 would be "less than $4 billion," provided Congress did not authorize more spending and appropriate more money than the present budget calls for.

Many in Congress, especially Senators, are doing exactly that. For instance, there is legislation to extend the Emergency Employment Assistance Act, which would cost no less than $12.5 billion during the next fiscal year alone. The budget provides for no such extension, on the grounds that unemployment is dropping and that state and local governments now have greatly increased financial resources to deal with unemployment in areas where it remains severe. Bills like this should be defeated and Presidential vetoes of them upheld.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Chuck Colson's Fellow:
Nixon Counting on 'Pete' to Swing Hard Hats Behind White House in Crisis

WASHINGTON— Deep inside the eeriness of this hyperthyroid city there's a power struggle between one of President Nixon's itinerant surrogates, Peter Brennan, and labor chief Goerge Meany. It is final combat for influence inside American labor, inside the hard- hat constituency, inside the vast "new (and silent) majority" on which Richard Nixon still counts.

Within this struggle, Watergate is incidental. But it is the clue to the bitterness and distaste which mark the relations of the two men--- Labor Secretary Brennan and union chief of chiefs Meany.

The chunky, still golf club-swinging Meany, who was active in Herbert Hoover's day, for example, said the other day that Watergate "is the greatest government crisis in my lifetime."

To former building and construction trades unions (New York) leader Brennan, Watergate is "crap." And I've polished up that one. During one recent speech, Brennan said that the people were not interested in "Watergate, house gates or garden gates." Just in "making a living, getting a job." He means it.

During the 75- minute morning Cabinet session June 7, Brennan, long accustomed to speaking bluntly, said that in traveling around the country he found "the nation as a whole is not being so consumed with the scandal, although recognizing its importance." Most folks, said Brennan, were far less concerned about the Watergate thing than those in the capital. President Nixon had barely mentioned the subject.

Then during a closed-circuit cross- country A.T.&T. Tele- Lecture speech to Labor Dept. employes in 10 regions, Brennan said:

"We won't be deterred from reaching our goals by rumor or gossip or glaring headlines. We can't ignore the Watergates, but they won't stop us from moving ahead to make this a better America--- an America we can continue to love. If wrong has been done--- let the guilty be found and punished. But let's not slow down our own drive to a better future."

Thus Peter Brennan is fulfilling his basic assignment--- to stand by the President, to reach out to the hard hats and deliver the blue- collar workers just as he did back in May 1970. That month was Dick Nixon's previous low point. That month he ordered the troop movement into Cambodia. That month the nation boiled over with riots, demonstrations and campus cries of "Power to the People." That month the college youngsters poured off the campuses onto the city streets.

That month Pete Brennan put 125,000 hard hats onto the sidewalks of New York to drown out and outnumber the roaring opposition. And the Brennan- Nixon romance began, carefully nurtured by special presidential counselor Charles "Chuck" Colson, the latter- day Cyrano.

It was Colson who picked Brennan. For many reasons. Domestically the Labor Dept. is more equal that other Cabinet seats when it comes to making or breaking a union, a corporation, a massive project, or even the economy--- just look at it carefully.

Colson reasoned, right after the '72 election, the department could not be turned over to any man, be he a professor such as George Shultz or a businessman such as the late Jim Mitchell, who would work too closely with Meany.

Further, Brennan was, and is, a Nixon- Colson loyalist. This is reflected in virtually all of Pete's speeches and congressional testimony. And in his series of private meetings and talks with national labor chiefs.

True, Brennan isn't an economist. Nor an administrator. But this was easily remedied. To Brennan's side came one of the government's most astute executives--- a lady who knows her way through the federal labyrinth far better than anyone in this administration 1969- 1973. She is Mrs. Joan Hall. She was Colson's secretary. No simple task--- as when some 72 calls, some of them from Cabinet members, rolled up in one morning.

Mrs. Hall, as she did in the Colson office, has whipped things into well- oiled operational action for Brennan, whose executive secretary she is now.

And it was Colson who brought the rest of the hard hats and other powerful union chiefs to Mr. Nixon as he had Brennan. Certainly the most powerful of those is the Teamsters general president Frank "Fitz" Fitzsimmons who saved Phase 2 from collapse when Meany pulled out. And it is Fitz who was among the first to tell the President Monday, June 11, noontime, that he would be at the 3 o'clock Labor-Management Advisory Committee of the Cost of Living Council regardless of who could or couldn't come.

Obviously Colson guessed right with Brennan who, except for an official public handshake, hasn't spoken with Meany since mid- February, according to "sources." Brennan's now about to hit the road. New York this week. The rest of the country soon after. He wants to deliver the "movement," the hard hats and blue- collar 1972 majority, back to Dick Nixon. And it will have to be over Meany's husky body, curt voice and Richelieu- Metternich- (Golda) Meir political astuteness.

And the betting is on Meany. But should Brennan deliver he'll have much of the powerful political labor movement. And, as one of his close aides said the other day, "We're not only staying through this administration but through the next." To Pete that could mean only Rockefeller.

There's more here than Sam Ervin's standing- room- only thriller.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Kelley and Minorities

WASHINGTON— Justice Department field reports from Missouri, intended for official eyes only, severely criticize Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley for his handling of police brutality cases. Kelley, of course, is President Nixon's latest choice as a permanent director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"There have been several incidents in the last two years of perceived severe police brutality against minority citizens," stated one report filed from Kansas City last year. "No meaningful efforts have been made... to show the public that the (Police Department) will not tolerate excessive use of force by its officers."

The report called on the Justice Department in Washington "for assistance in dealing with these situations." The field office urged Washington to make its concern known "to effect positive changes in police-community relations." However, there is no evidence that the Justice Department ever followed up on the recommendation.

Meanwhile, another report from Kansas City also criticizes Kelley's dealings with minorities. In April 1968, in the wake of Martin Luther King's assassination, riots broke out in Kansas City and six blacks were killed. A civil disorder report was called for and completed, but five years later many of its recommendations have gone unmet.

"The necessary steps, for example, have not been taken to regain local control of the Police Department," noted one report. "Human relations training should be intensified," it added. The report also recommended that Kelley's department review citizens' complaints more closely and hire more blacks. Even now, however, only seven per cent of Kelley's 1,300- man force is black.

The Police Department has earned praise for "a number of efforts" that have improved the department's relationship with the community. Kelley, for example, has experimented with storefront offices in the ghetto and has increased the size of his community relations unit.

But one report has noted: "To the extent that change has occurred, federal funding has been the impetus. To the extent that change has not occurred, racism has been the primary impediment." Without federal programs, claims this report, "very little change since the civil disorder would be in evidence."

Footnote: To Kelley's credit, he has made extensive use of computers and helicopters to cut Kansas City's crime rate. He is also sensitive to complaints about the misuse of electronic surveillance. Under Kelley, police use of wiretapping in Kansas City has been tightly controlled and reduced.

McGovern's Security Briefings: The White House gave George McGovern's security adviser, Paul Warnke, three security briefings during the 1972 campaign. The purpose was to assure continuity in case McGovern won the election.

Now President Nixon has divulged that, in 1970, he authorized surveillance methods (1) which a security adviser warned were "clearly illegal" and (2) which the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover refused to implement. Thereafter, the President went ahead without Hoover to form his own private, parapolice outfit, known as "the plumbers," inside the White House.

As justification, the President claimed radicals and revolutionaries were such a threat to the national security that extralegal steps were necessary.

Yet not a word of this was ever mentioned to Warnke who, as an assistant defense secretary under the late Lyndon Johnson, held the highest security clearance.

The White House briefings were conducted by Gen. Alexander Haig, then Henry Kissinger's No. 2 man. Warnke described them as no more than "textbook" summaries of foreign policy problems. "Domestic threats to national security were never even brought up," he told us.

"Much of the briefings were routine," he recalled. Except for occasional tidbits of international gossip, he was given little information that hadn't already appeared in the press.

One tantalizing tidbit that Warnke pried out of Haig involved India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Warnke asked why the United States had delayed naming a successor to Kenneth Keating as ambassador to India. Haig confided that Madame Gandhi and Ambassador Keating had engaged in a spat shortly before Keating's departure. Haig described the lady's language as "vitriolic."

The White House, therefore, had decided to delay appointing a new ambassador until Madame Gandhi cooled off.

Of more substance, Warnke disclosed that the White House was optimistic about a Vietnam settlement days before the election. After his last briefing on October 20, 1972, Warnke reported that Haig had been "circumspect" on the subject of Vietnam. "The net impression," wrote Warnke, "is that Henry Kissinger is working feverishly for a settlement." Six days later, Kissinger issued his famous "peace is at hand" statement.

Warnke was also told of rising tensions along the Chinese- Russian border and deteriorating Russian- Egyptian relations, which he had read about in more detail in the Washington Post. He was told the secret number of missile silos, however, that the Russians were building.

But the Domestic threat to national security, which President Nixon now cites as justification for the bizarre plumbers operation, was never mentioned.

Job's Daughters install new queen

Miss Frances Riddle, daughter of Mrs. Mary McAfee, 309 Virginia, and the late Charles Riddle, was installed as honored queen of Bethel No. 27 of International Order of Job's Daughters June 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

Decorations of pink, orchid and purple were above the three main stations with an open Bible draped in purple and white.

The ceremony began as Mrs. Edith Grimes, the bethel guardian, and Aquilla Grimes, associate guardian, were escorted into the room by installing senior custodian Lisa Righter and junior custodian Marsha Dement.

Mrs. Grimes called the proceedings to order and directed the associate guardian to escort the installing honored queen into the room. Mrs. Claudia Lambert, installing queen, was escorted to the east.

Mrs. Lambert directed the other installing officers to enter. They were Melissa Holt, installing guide; Prissy Righter, installing marshal; Jane Campbell, installing chaplain; Lucile Mount, installing recorder; Mrs. Mildred Canedy, soloist, and Mrs. Mayme Jean Poage, organist.

The elected and appointed officers then were escorted to their positions for the installation. In addition to honored queen, new officers are Libby Walker, senior princess; Susan Dement, junior princess; Beth Hambrick, guide; Lee Ann Matthews, marshal; Carolyn McAfee, chaplain; Myra Mills, recorder; Nancy Forbis, treasurer; Andrea Wheeler, librarian; Leslie Cox, first messenger; Susie Adams, second messenger; Patti Eaker, third messenger; LaRue Campbell, fourth messenger; Pam Weddington, fifth messenger; Michelle Powell, senior custodian; Theresa Weathers, junior custodian; Robyn Hale, inner guard; Julie Branum, outer guard; Cindy Cox, musician; and Tammy Houchins, flag carrier.

Miss Campbell, installing chaplain, assisted by Miss Dement, Lisa and Prissy Righter and Melissa Holt, presented the Bible at the altar in a candlelight ceremony. Mrs. Canedy sang, "Fill My Cup Lord", accompanied by Mrs. Poage. This was followed by the presentation of the American flag, pledge of allegiance and the National Anthem.

The new officers and choir repeated the obligation to the bethel and to the duties of their respective offices.

Misses Walker and Dement were escorted to the altar and Mrs. Canedy sang original words to the tune of "'S Wonderful".

Miss Riddle was escorted to the altar where she knelt.

Mrs. Lambert then approached and placed a glittering crown on Miss Riddle's head and invested her with the cape of royal purple velvet which symbolizes the office of the honored queen.

Mrs. Canedy sang, "Ain't She Sweet", changing the words to fit the occasion.

Miss Riddle was then escorted to the east by her stepfather, Carroll McAfee, and Miss Kathy Eaker, junior past honored queen, presented the gavel to her cousin. Miss Lucile Mount, installing recorder, made the proclamation that concluded the ceremony.

Miss Eaker was escorted to the altar where she received a past honored queen's jewel and a dozen red roses. Mrs. Canedy sang original words to "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face".

During the ceremonies of escorts and honors, Miss Riddle introduced her mother, stepfather and brother and sister, Jimmy and Carolyn. Other relatives and officials were also recognized and introduced.

The installing officers approached the east and Miss Riddle gave them gifts.

While singing "Onward Christian Soldiers", the Job's Daughters formed a cross and knelt to sing, "Nearer My God to Thee".

While the girls remained kneeling, Kenneth Riddle, past worthy patron of Chapter No. 137, and an uncle of Miss Riddle, gave the benediction. The bethel guardian closed the ceremony.

A reception given by Order of the Eastern Star Chapter No. 137 followed the ceremony and was held in the temple's dining room. Decorations here also followed the installing colors of pink, orchid and purple.

Refreshments were served.

Ann Landers

Children should learn killing is not sport

Dear Ann Landers: Something MUST be done about kids who are turned loose with B.B. guns and pellets. This morning I heard strange sounds outside my window and discovered that my brother (age 12) had just shot a mother woodpecker and her baby. Although they were already dead he continued to shoot them.

This isn't the first time I've caught him doing such a thing. And he isn't the only one. His friends are just as bad. I blame their parents who think there is something wonderful about teaching children to "hunt." It makes me sick to see nature's creatures dead all around me --- deer, ducks, rabbits, squirrels.

At one time man had to kill animals for survival. Today, shooting animals and calling it a "sport" is not only a popular pastime but it's downright fashionable.

I know all the arguments put out by gun clubs, rifle and bullet manufactureres, and magazines that push these sales. They scream about "balance of nature," etc. In the meantime, I am deeply concerned about young people who are taught to kill. Do you have the courage to print this letter? Or has the gun lobby got to you, too? ---A Reader

Dear Reader: You must be a brand new reader or you wouldn't have asked that last question. Here's your letter and my thanks to you for having written it.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "A Doctor's Wife" burned my up. She was undoubtedly trying to defend the members of the Noble Fraternity of Medicine against the charges that some of them make passes at women patients in the examining rooms. What really ticked me off was the way she lambasted "the town's bored and neurotic society ladies'' who keep propositioning her physician-husband.

Her physician- husband may be a wonderful, kind-hearted, compassionate man, someone in whom women confide easily, but he also has a very loose lip if he goes home and tells his wife stuff like that. I would classify such information as ''strictly confidential."

I know several doctors' wives and most of them drink too much. If their husbands are confiding in them, the medical profession is in sad shape. ---View From The Bridge.

Dear View: I don't believe doctors' wives drink more than the wives of lawyers, sewer inspectors or bus drivers. I do go along with you, however, on physicians who report at home about the unseemly behavior of their women patients. Such information should stay in the office.

Dear Ann Landers: A single women in her early 30s joined our typing pool last year. She was vague about her social life and never invited any of us to her apartment. We decided she is living with a man.

Three months ago "Miss Enigma" began to put on weight. Last week it became apparent that she is pregnant. She is not wearing maternity clothes, just larger blouses and skirts.

This afternoon during coffee break we were discussing diets. "Miss Enigma" casually mentioned that she has put on about 15 pounds due to a tumor which she is having out "in a few months."

We hate for her to think she is fooling anyone. What should our attitude be? --- Not Born Yesterday.

Dear N. B. Y.: Improved. Right now it's disgusting. People who assume the worst spoil my day. You dames need more work. Why don't you varnish your desks?

Ann Landers discusses teen-age drinking --- its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading, "Booze And You --- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Two receive degrees

CANTON — Two 1969 Sikeston High School graduates received degrees during commencement exercises at Culver- Stockton College.

They are Nancy Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Turner, 118 Daniel, and Leslie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Johnson, 403 Dorothy.

Dr. Fred Helsabeck, president, presented diplomas to seniors and Leland F. Belew, manager of the Skylab Project at Marshall Space Flight Center, gave the commencement address.

Miss Turner majored in elementary education and was graduated Hilltop with a grade point average of 3.20 or above (4.00 scale). She was named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" and was a member of Chi Omega sorority.

She also was active in Panhellenic Council, Student Parliament and Senior Court. She was an honor student and a member of last fall's homecoming court.

Miss Johnson, who completed work for her degree earlier this year, majored in English at the college. She was president of the Sigma Tau Delta national English fraternity chapter, editor of the college literary magazine, feature editor of the student newspaper, officer of Sigma Kappa sorority and active in college dramatic productions.

Magruder confesses to involvement, says President had no knowledge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder confessed Watergate involvement today, said as far as he knows President Nixon had no knowledge of "our errors in this matter," but said a White House aide was told of the wiretapping plan three months before it was executed.

Magruder said he informed Gordon Strachan, a White House aide who worked directly for presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

Testifying at the Senate's televised Watergate hearings, he said he personally informed Strachan that plans for the wiretapping had been approved by John N. Mitchell.

Magruder said Mitchell, the campaign director and former attorney general, approved the final $250,000 bugging proposal on March 30, 1972, at Key Biscayne, Fla. He said the operation was first proposed by G. Gordon Liddy, then a campaign aide, later convicted as a Watergate conspirator.

"No one was completely overwhelmed with the project. But we thought the information could be useful and Mr. Mitchell approved the project," said Magruder.

This meeting had followed two meetings earlier in the year where Mitchell had first rejected a $1-million proposal and then a $500,000 plan, Magruder testified.

Logs of wiretapped telephone conversations were regularly given to Mitchell, Magruder said.

He said Strachan also saw the logs, but didn't receive copies of them for his own use.

Magruder said Mitchell was angry at Liddy because there was little useful information in the logs. "He said they were worthless, and not worth the money we paid," Magruder recalled.

Strachan, who viewed the documents in Magruder's office, also agreed that there was little of substance in them, Magruder said.

Liddy explained that one of the wiretaps which had been placed in the Democratic headquarters didn't work, and promised Mitchell to correct the situation, Magruder said.

Magruder said John W. Dean III, ousted White House counsel, was also among those present at the two meetings at which wiretapping plans were presented by Liddy.

"Unfortunately we made some mistakes in the campaign which led to a major national concern," said Magruder, who served as deputy director of the Nixon organization.

Magruder, 38, said he took full responsibility for his own acts and, as "a mature man," is willing to face the consequences.

"As far as I know, at no point in time in this entire period from the time of planning of the Watergate to the time of trying to keep it from the public view did the President have any knowledge of our errors in this matter," Magruder said. "He had full confidence in his aides, and I must confess that some of us failed him ..."

Magruder's public admission came in a brief prepared statement he read to the televised hearings of the Senate Watergate committee. He said he was willing to take the consequences of his actions.

Magruder, testifying with limited immunity from prosecution for what he says to the Senate investigators, told the committee he would name others who participated with him in the operation.

The 38-year-old former cosmetics executive read his dramatic statement almost as an afterthought, after committee questioning had begun with routine questions about his background and position in the campaign.

His lawyer broke in to ask that he be permitted to read the statement.

Answering the initial questions, Magruder said former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was responsible for the Nixon re-election campaign "from the beginning." Magruder said that meant May 1971, long before Mitchell left the Nixon Cabinet.

He said H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former White House chief of staff, was the liaison man with the campaign organization.

Magruder said wiretapping was first proposed Jan. 27, 1972, at a meeting in the office of Atty. Gen. Mitchell.

He said it was proposed by G. Gordon Liddy, who had been detailed to the Nixon re-election campaign from the White House specifically to set up an intelligence operation.

Mitchell, White House counsel John W. Dean III, and Magruder were present at the 30minute meeting, Magruder said.

Besides wiretapping, Liddy also proposed a plan to kidnap leaders of radical groups, hold them in places like Mexico, and return them after the Republican National Convention, Magruder said.

He said Liddy also proposed the use of call girls to gain information from Democratic officials. Liddy wanted to hire a yacht and equip it with cameras and recorders, Magruder said.

"I think all three of us were appalled at the scope of the project. I don't think it was in Mr. Mitchell's or Mr. Dean's mind," Magruder said.

He said Mitchell indicated this wasn't acceptable and directed Liddy to come up with some acceptable plan.

Magruder said he reported this meeting to Gordon Strachan, a member of the White House staff who reported directly to Haldeman. "I think I discussed the general nature of his (Liddy's) proposal," Magruder recalled.

Magruder said Strachan was also sent the results of a second meeting held Feb. 4, 1972, at which wiretapping was discussed.

This was also in Mitchell's office with Dean, Magruder and Liddy present, he said.

Magruder said Liddy's second proposal also was rejected, but that Liddy was encouraged to keep working. He said Mitchell "just didn't feel comfortable with it at that level."

The Chicago Tribune reported today that Magruder already has told committee investigators that Mitchell gave Stans the complete story behind Watergate a week after the breakin.

Magruder said Stans was filled in on details at a meeting in Mitchell's office last June 24, one week after the Watergate burglary, the Tribune reported.

Stans has denied any part in the attempt to cover up the break-in, and said most of his information about Watergate came from news accounts.

Once a Nixon campaign deputy, Magruder admitted planning the Watergate wiretapping with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III and convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, according to a sworn account by former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman.

Two colleagues at the Nixon campaign have testified that Magruder asked them to lie about the affair under oath. Herbert L. Porter swore that he did commit perjury, but Hugh Sloan Jr. testified that he refused Magruder's requests to understate the amount of money paid to Liddy.

Magruder is identified in news accounts as the man who is expected to plead guilty and testify at trial without immunity. Federal prosecutors say one unidentified figure in the case agreed to plead guilty to a single charge in the case, and to implicate others.

Magruder has obtained immunity from prosecution for whatever he might say at the Senate hearings. But this does not necessarily protect him from being prosecuted in the courts, where he has no immunity.

Stans, who is a former secretary of commerce and the chief fund-raiser for the President's re-election campaign committee, was questioned harshly Wednesday by Democratic senators. One Republican member objected to what he called harassment of Stans.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, DGa., said he found one aspect of Stans' testimony "frankly inconceivable." This was Stans' assertion that he did not inquire about the purpose of money Magruder authorized for Liddy.

And Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said he thought it a "queer coincidence ..., rather a suspicious coincidence," that Stans destroyed records of the cash that paid for the break-in and wiretapping after the bugging crew was caught red-handed.

Stans testified that he had received legal advice that he did not have to keep records of the cash donations and disbursements. The audience in the hearing room broke into laughter when Stans said that Liddy was among those who gave the advice.

Liddy was Stans' counsel at the Finance Committee to Reelect the President until 11 days after the break-in, when Stans fired him for refusing to answer questions of FBI investigators.

In other Watergate developments:

—Members of a House subcommittee questioned Ehrlichman for six hours behind closed doors about whether he approved a memorandum authorizing the 1971 break-in at Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. "He did approve a proposal," said subcommittee Chairman Lucien V. Nedzi, D-Mich. "The substance of it is not clear."

—Sources close to the Senate investigation said Gordon Strachan, an aide to former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, is ready to testify about his role in the scandal if immunity can be secured.

Strahan reportedly received information from wiretap logs, and also handled a secret $350,000 fund that reportedly ended up as payments to the Watergate burglars.

—The Senate committee scheduled an extra day of hearings for next Monday and agreed to hold an additional hearing if necessary the following Monday. Hearings have been regularly scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and plans are to hold hearings June 18-21 and June 26-28, with a possible extra day June 25.

FACTS ABOUT SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL

Solid waste disposal will become a municipal problem after June 30, of this year, and City officials have received numerous questions concerning the problem.

City residents throughout the County are interested in what the solid waste fuss is all about; what will be done to dispose of solid waste after June 30; and other aspects of the problem.

To help inform the residents of New Madrid County as to what has been, and will be done about the problem, the following questions and answers have been prepared.

WHAT IS ALL THIS SOLID WASTE FUSS ABOUT?

It is about all the solid waste that every home throws away, including paper; packaging; cans; garbage; containers; nonreturnable bottles and etc. The present dumps are becoming nightmares of pollution and the State of Missouri has passed legislation requiring the closing of all open dumps by June 30, 1973. This means that all open dumps in the county will be closed.

WHAT WILLWE DO WITH SOLID WASTE AFTER JUNE 30, 1973?

The same State legislation which will close all open dumps allows for the operation of a Sanitary Landfill, which must be licensed by the State Board Of Health. Solid waste may be buried in the landfills (ground) which meet state requirements. Waste must be covered with six inches of earth each day and two feet of dirt must cover the final fill. Large machinery, such as a D-7 caterpillar, will be required to dig out and re- cover the area. Back- up equipment will be needed, as well as equipment to spray for flies, which is a daily requirement.

CAN A PERSON DISPOSE OF THEIR OWN SOLID WASTE?

Yes, if disposed of in an approved sanitary landfill. However, the state does require each city to have a solid waste disposal plan which will be available to every household each week. Each city will be required to have this service for all residents even if they do not have solid waste to dispose of. The state has specified that approval will not be given to any plan that does not provide pick up and disposal for all citizens.

HOW WILL ANY FEE BE COLLECTED?

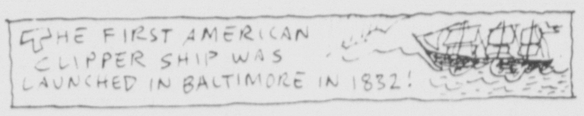
Under state requirements fees must be collected by the city or county to pay for collections. A proposal to add a fee to a utility bill in the city for the amount to pay for collections has been suggested as one of the ways for the cities in New Madrid County.

WILL THE PROPOSED SYSTEM MEET STATE REQUIRMENTS?

Yes. This proposal, if adopted will meet the State Board of Health requirements for a solid waste plan for all cities in New Madrid County.

New Madrid County now owns a sanitary landfill four miles southwest of Lilbourn on Hiway 62. The landfill is centrally located and available to all residents of New Madrid County.

Because of complaints of dumping refuge on private and public property, vigorous action will be taken against offenders. As of now all open dumps in New Madrid County are closed and will be covered as soon as possible.



Attorneys General vote to urge energy investigation

ST. LOUIS (AP)— The National Association of Attorneys General voted unanimously Wednesday to urge Congress to establish a special task force to investigate the nation's energy crisis.

The resolution, passed during the final session of state prosecutors 67th annual conference here, said the probe should look at the oil industry in particular and include "the prosecution of federal anti-trust violations brought to light by such investigation."

In calling for the inquiry, the associated noted "the citizens of our states are being subjected to sharp increases in the price of gasoline and fuel oil."

A measure calling for "a full investigation by federal and state governments" into the Watergate scandal, however, did not find as receptive an audience.

By a 15- 12 vote, the country's top state legal officers rejected the Watergate resolution with the balloting closely following party lines.

Three Democrats joined 12 Republicans to defeat the measure with the 12 favorable votes coming from Democrats.

Missouri's Republican Attorney General John C. Danforth called it an "empty resolution."

"It, Watergate is already being investigated," Danforth said, and passage of the resolution "would make this organization look silly."

But Democrat Robert H. Quinn of Massachusetts said the proposal was not political.

"It does not lay blame anywhere. It simply reminds us to pursue violations of the law whereever they exist," Quinn said.

Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren of Wisconsin was chosen as the association's new president, succeeding Gary K. Nelson of Arizona.

NOTICE

Anyone caught dumping refuse anywhere except at an approved sanitary landfill will be prosecuted.

Heated debate results over 18 year old rights

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "We're not going to eliminate 17 and 18-year-olds drinking by passing this amendment," a Missouri House member said during debate on whether to allow 18-year-olds full adult rights.

The House approved a bill Wednesday sponsored by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, to allow persons 18 years or older to have the same privileges and responsibilities as those over 21 have now.

However, there was heated debate on whether to allow the 18-year-olds the right to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

Jones' bill was amended in the Senate to prohibit the buying and consuming of alcoholic beverages, but the House substituted Jones' original proposal.

An amendment was offered to put back the Senate prohibition, which sparked the debate.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-St. Louis County, said letting the young people have the right to buy liquor would produce increased death rates on state highways.

When Meyer said the accident rate in Michigan had increased 50 per cent since the majority age was lowered there, several other lawmakers countered that was not the case in other states that have adopted it.

"Right now young people in St. Louis can go across the river to Illinois and buy liquor, and then come back and drive on our highways," one member noted.

Several representatives protested the bill would be unfair if the young people did not get all the rights adults possess.

"No one here today has made the distinction of whether an 18-year old given the right to buy liquor will consume more than those aged 21 to 90," said Rep. C. F. Cline, D-Sikeston.

"In fact, we have some people in this very chamber who can't hold their liquor," he added.

Rep. David Reed, R-Kansas City, said the young people could already find ways to buy beer and liquor if they wanted it, which "leads to disrepect for the present laws."

One representative predicted the bill would never pass the Senate again with the liquor section taken out.

"The vote on this was very close in the Senate ... and none of those senators are going to yield their positions on it."

Diamonds disappear when they are strongly heated.

Suggestion made on allocation of crime-fighting funds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A report soon to be released by the state Law Enforcement Assistance Council recommends that federal crime-fighting funds be given only to those city and county jails where officials genuinely want to improve them.

The report of the LEAC's adult corrections committee calls most of the 144 jails unfit for human habitation, said Chairman Harry Wiggins Wednesday.

"The committee feels that no more money should be used for piecemeal fixup of local jails," Wiggins said. "You wouldn't even house your dog, or for that matter, a stray dog, in many of these places.'

The committee toured the state's jails. Wiggins said St. Louis and Pettis County have good jails, but those in Platte, Ray, Buchanan and many rural counties are inadequate.

and Jackson counties to raise their annual park levies from eight to 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The counties could add one cent in 1975 and another in 1976.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-St. Louis County, was unsuccessful in adding an amendment to require the proposal be put before voters. He objected to giving local governing bodies power to raise people's taxes.

The House gave lopsided approval to a bill granting 18year-olds full adult rights, including the right to buy alcoholic beverages. The bill went back to the Senate, which had excluded the right to buy and consume alcoholic beverages.

The bill would go into effect Sept. 28.

A bill to increase the aid to dependent children payments by $5 per person met opposition from the House, which wanted a $10 increase. The House offered to delay the effective date of the bill to 1974 if the Senate would go along with the increase.

Under the Senate version, a mother would receive $38 a month, the first child would get $48 a month and each additional child would receive $29 a month. The bill is expected to cost $11 million a year to fund.

Another public assistance bill cleared the legislative machinery Wednesday and was en route to the governo's desk.

It would provide continuance of old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to the permanently disabled when the federal government takes over the program next year.

Welfare officials say the federal benefits may be less than the current payments because the federal supplements to the state program may be reduced. About 117,000 Missourians would be affected.

A bill to extend licenses to sell liquor by the drink to resorts in unincorporated areas cleared the Senate and went back to the House for approval of an amendment to exclude country clubs from the bill.

Under present law, only resorts in counties bordering on lakes with at least 250 miles of shoreline (Lake of the Ozarks) can sell liquor by the drink. Other resorts have package outlets.

Sent to the governor was a bill requiring the Public Service Commission to inspect and issue seals to all mobile homes manufactured after Jan. 1, 1974.

The bill says the Division of Health will set up regulations requiring all mobile homes to be tied down to avoid blowing over in tornados. However, a Senate amendment took out a penalty of a misdemeanor if mobile home owners refused to comply.

The bill does not cover motor homes or camper trucks.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a $7.6 million appropriations bill to fund programs approved this year by the legislature.

Included was $200,000 for higher daily expense money for legislators. The lawmakers have approved and sent to the governor a bill increasing their per day expenses from $10 to $25.

Another $2.9 million in the bill would equalize the pay of state employes in out-state areas with the pay of state employes in urban areas.

The House passed and sent to the governor bills that would:

—Raise the salaries of the two associate prosecuting attorneys of the St. Louis Court of Criminal Correction from $14,000 to $17,000 a year.

—Increase the number of staff members the St. Louis circuit attorney could hire and raise the pay of all staff members.

—Allow a city to transfer vacant or uninhavited land adjacent to the city to another city by ordinance if the land also borders on the other city.

—Puts the common pleas court under the jurisdiction of the probate judge in Cape Girardeau County.

—Provide that in criminal cases where the jury has the discretion as to the extent of punishment, it must assess the punishment when giving its verdict.

—Reduce from nine to six months the period after a person's death in which his real estate cannot be sold, if there is a mortgage on the property.

In other action the House passed and returned to the Senate bills that would:

—Provide that if two or more persons conspire to commit a msidemeanor they would be guilty of a misdemeanor, and if they conspire to commit a felony, they are guilty of a felony.

—Make it the state duty of circuit court clerks to keep all records of the courts and let them use new methods and systems for keeping records.

and more-flexible authority needed" to impose export controls on products such as grain and animal feedstuffs. "In allocating the products of America's farms between markets abroad and those in the United States, we must put the American consumer first," he said.

—A presidential order for the Internal Revenue Service to immediately audit the books of companies that raised their prices more than 1.5 per cent during Phase 3. If the increases weren't justified, Nixon said "the prices will be rolled back."

—A request that Congress allow him to eliminate tariffs on imported meat and other scarce items such as plywood and zinc, plus authority to sell more surplus commodities from government stockpiles.

—A promise of new farm legislation to put "high production ahead of high prices," a threat to veto any spending bill that exceeds his proposed budget, and a plea that Congress quickly clear the way for the Alaska pipeline to combat oil and gasoline shortages.

Nixon said he didn't freeze wages because they hadn't been a significant cause of price increases. They will remain for now under Phase 3 guidelines which generally call for pay boosts to be held to 5.5 per cent a year.

But officials made clear that wage controls are forthcoming in Phase 4, which Nixon said "will recognize the need for wages and prices to be treated consistently with one another."

In recent months it became increasingly clear that Phase 3 wasn't checking inflation. Consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 9.2 per cent during the first four months of the year while food prices shot upward at an annual rate of 25.4 per cent.

"Everybody admits Phase 3 was a failure," Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz conceded at a news conference Wednesday night. "Let's not argue about that."

In his speech, Nixon repeated his opposition to a government controlled economy. He said Phase 4 will be intended to "return us as quickly as possible to the free-market system."

Koontz received minor facial cuts and a passenger, Geraldine Koontz, 52, of Troy, suffered minor head and arm injuries. Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

A car and a motorcycle collided at 3:15 p.m. on a township road two miles northeast of Kennett, injuring the motorcycle driver, Steven Lynn Elders, 16, of Kennett.

The accident occurred when both vehicles approached a blind intersection and the motorcycle struck the car driven by Jesse Raymond Bridges, 61, of Kennett which was turning left.

Elders received a broken right leg and bruises and was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital.

Franklin J. Box, 40, of Canalou suffered a hip and back injury at 4:40 p.m. at the intersection of Highways 61 and 80 one mile east of Matthews when he pulled his car into the path of a car driven by Verna Lois Moore, 64, of Matthews.

Wise came close

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rick Wise lit up a long cigar and gulped two sodas as he talked about the one that got away— his second major league no-hitter.

"I saw the ball come off the bat and thought 'it's over,"' said the St. Louis pitcher after throwing 8 1-3 innings of no-hit ball in an 8-0 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night.

Joe Morgan of the Reds laced a line drive over Wise's head into center field. It ended the Cardinal pitcher's bid to become the first National League hurler of the century to no-hit the same team twice.

"I tried extra hard, but he did what a good hitter should do. He just punched it out there," said the bespectacled right-hander, who fired a 4-0 no-hitter against the Reds two years ago.

"I shook off a breaking pitch because I wanted to go with my best pitch," said Wise, now 8-3.

Catcher Ted Simmons called for a curve because of Wise's predominant use of a fastball.

"He was just challenging them, as if to say, 'if you're gonna do it, do it'," said Simmons. "He had pinpoint control all night. He's not a fireballer. He just paints the outside corner all the time with his exceptional control."

Ten feet away, Luis Melendez blushed sheepishly as his teammates' directed loud congratulations meant more for the press corps which encircled Wise. "Don't forget Loeey," came the light-hearted jabs.

Melendez grand slam homer keyed a seven-run third inning explosion. But it was nearly forgotten as attention focused on the drama of Wise's bid.

Wise, who said the sticky, 75degree temperatures kept him from stiffening up, said he was aware of his no-hitter all along.

"Listen, you always know that, but you don't think you really have a shot until around the seventh inning. I went with the fast ball most of the time and kept it away from them," said the 27-year-old Portland, Ore., native.

Wise, who lost 12 one-run games last year to finish 16-16, struck out four and walked three.

The loser was Reds' ace Jack Billingham, 8-3.

"We owed them a licking," said Wise, referring to the Reds' 10 victories in 12 meetings with the Cards last year.

Youth program open Saturday

Youths from the ages of eight to sixteen are reminded to participate in the Sikeston Recreational program Saturday, from 9 to 12 a.m.

Leo Schade, publicity chairman for the program, said that plenty of equipment is available and everyone will have the chance to participate in his own age group. Any sport can be chosen in which to take part. He added that the program is well supervised by men from the various civic organizations.

Three sites are open for the program: the high school, middle school and Lincoln school.

Herron charged

WINNIPEG (AP) — Mack Herron, former Kansas State football player and an All-Star running back for Winnipeg of the Canadian Football League, will have another week to make a plea in connection with charges against him of possession of marijuana and cocaine.

Judge Wallace Darichuk granted a remand Wednesday in provincial judge's court on request of Herron's legal counsel.

Trevino favored

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Lee Trevino was full of vim and vinegar and conceding nothing to defending champion Jack Nicklaus as they and 148 other golfers began pursuit today of the 73rd U.S. Open title.

"I had to laugh when I read in the paper that Bill Casper said Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf have a 10-shot advantage here this week," the volubile Mexican-American spouted. "Casper must be talking about himself—he's not talking about the Mex.

"I figure I've got as good a chance as anybody. I'm as ready as I'm ever going to be. This is not the Memphis Open or the Dallas Open. This is the U.S. Open. I get keyed up for this one."

The swarthy, 33-year-old Trevino is acting like a prize fighter who can't wait for the bell to ring. He is edgy and tense. His usual good humor is blunted by a fierce impatience.

Trevino, who has won two U. S. Open titles and joined the exclusive ranks of golfing millionaires in his six years on the tour, is one of the favorites among the 137 pros and 13 amateurs beginning the fourday, 72-hole test over the 6,921yard, par 71 Oakmont course, notorious for its cavernous traps and glass-slick greens.

In the star-spangled field, Trevino is the one man who can look Nicklaus squarely in the eye and not melt with awe. He defeated Nicklaus in a playoff for the Open crown two years ago at Merion, outside Philadelphia, and with a dramatic finishing flourish, killed Jack's bid for a Grand Slam by winning the British Open last July at Muirfield, Scotland.

Nicklaus is the top choice at 6-1, followed by Trevino and Weiskopf at 8-1, Arnold Palmer and Bruce Crampton at 10-1, Lanny Wadkins, Gary Player, Tony Jacklin and Casper at 151.

The first group was to tee off today at 7:30 a.m. EDT.

USC remains champ

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Baseball dynasties aren't dead, just ask Arizona State.

The top-rated collegiate team suffered a 4-3 loss here Wednesday night to Southern California and for the fourth straight year the Trojans carted home the national collegiate baseball crown.

"We were young and scrappy, but we said we could play with anybody." said USC Coach Rod Dedeaux. "And that's the way we won it. We scrapped."

Southern California, 51-11, didn't wow anyone with hitting, but won the College World Series in its typical methodical manner—with good defense and by taking advantage of the breaks.

"Throughout the game, whenever it seemed we might be able to score a few runs, or break out, they came up with the super defensive play," said Arizona Coach Jim Brock.

"They had at least five super defensive plays," he continued. "Their defensive play throughout the game proved to be the difference."

And an end of Southern California dominance isn't in sight.

'We wanted this title very badly," continued Dedeaux, who has coached eight of the nine Trojans title clubs.

"We are an extremely young team, losing only (Daryl) Arenstein and (Craig) Barnes off the entire roster. If we keep this team intact we'll have a pretty good club next year."

Keeping the talent around is a problem at USC, six players off the 1973 title club were drafted by major league teams and a most probably will sign.

Southern California bunched eight of its nine hits in the first four innings to built a 4-0 lead and then repeatedly held off Arizona State, 59-8, in the battle of college baseball's two superpowers.

Final containment came from the arm of sophomore Jeff Reinke, who threw no-hit ball over the final three and twothirds innings to save the victory for Mark Barr.

Reinke, a sophomore who is at USC on a basketball scholarship, typifies what college teams have to contend with when they face the Trojans.

Blues make trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hockey Blues have acquired left wing Jack Rathwell from the Buffalo Sabres in exchange for defenseman Paul Curtis, the team announced Wednesday.

Rathwell, 25, scored 30 goals and 50 assists last season with the Sabres' Cincinnati farm club.

Curtis, also 25, scored only one goal and three assists with the Blues during 28 games last season.

Senior tennis tour is formed

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Riggs, Frank Parker, Billy Talbert, Pancho Segura—famous names from tennis' golden past—all hope to regain some of their lost glory in the rebirth of interest that the sport currently enjoys.

Riggs hustled his way to a measure of recognition for the oldtimers with his recent easy victory over Australian Margaret Court in what was billed as the Battle of the Sexes. Now some of his middle-aged friends are hoping to get a piece of the action through the brainchild of Al Bunis of Cincinnati, a leading authority on senior tenn s.

Bunis announced at a news conference Wednesday the formation of a Tennis Grand Masters Tour, featuring 12 of the game's best senior players. These players, he said, will compete for $250,000 in cash prizes in 10 different U.S. cities and several European capitals this year, with the weekend activity getting underway July 2022 in Milwaukee.

Bunis, captain of the U.S. Dubler Cup team, the senior division equivalent of the Davis Cup, said he considers tennis to be the game of the 1970s as golf was the sport of the 1950s and 1960s. And, he added, tennis also is becoming more and more a game for the middleaged.

The Grand Masters include Riggs, rated the finest match player of all time; Talbert, holder of 38 national titles; Gardnar Mulloy, seven times U.S. senior champion; Vic Sexias, 1953 Wimbledon champion; Segura, current senior hard court champion; Parker, USLTA national champion in 1944 and 1945, and Tom Brown, three-time U.S. Davis Cupper.

Also, Gustavo Palofax, No. 1 senior player in the U.S.; Jaroslav Drobny, 1954 Wimbledon champion; Hugh Stewart, winner of 20 national championships; Straight Clark, current Wimbledon senior champion, and Sam Match, two-time national clay court doubles champion.

Tennessee sets hunting seasons

The ten- member Tennessee Game and Fish Commission has approved hunting regulations for the 1973-74 season. The public meeting held in Nashville produced several new management prescriptions for Tennessee's wildlife resources.

Director David M. Goodrich announced that the state has been divided into nine big game hunting units in order to better manage Tennessee's diverse habitat. Also, seasons for upland game will be standardized to a particular day of the month for opening and closing. Goodrich also noted that checking stations for big game will be established in each county to obtain better big game harvest data. The Bullfrog season and limits appeared on the hunting regulations this year, also, instead of the fishing regulations.

For the first time in four years, bear hunting will be allowed in Tennessee. One bear per person per year may be taken in Units I and II in upper East Tennessee and on certain portions of the Cherokee Wildlife Management Area. Parts of the Cherokee area will be designated as bear reserves.

The Commission also approved a "no- wake" zoning at Center Hill Reservoir's Floating Mill recreational area. The area was declared hazardous to safe boating because of the heavy use by boaters and swimmers.

Regulations for the state's wildlife management areas will be published at a later date with the deer hunting zones and regulations. General regulations are listed below.

STATEWIDE HUNTING SEASONS AND BAG LIMITS SET BY THE COMMISSION

Species, Date, Bag/ Possession in respective order:

SQUIRREL — Fourth Saturday in August, limit 6 daily, 12 possession.

RABBIT — Thanksgiving Day, 5 daily, 12 possession.

BOBWHITE QUAIL — Thanksgiving Day, 10 daily, 20 possession.

RUFFED GROUSE — Second Saturday in October, 3 daily, 6 possession.

DEER (archery) — Last Saturday in September, limit varies with the unit.

RACCOON — Sunset, Second Friday in October, one per party per night east of Hwy. 27, one per person per night or two per party per night west of Hwy. 27.

BOBCAT, OPOSSUM, MINK — Sunset Second Friday in October, no Limit

GROUNDHOG, GRAY FOX, SKUNK, WEASEL, COYOTE — Open entire year during daylight hours, no limit.

RED FOX — Season closed for taking or killing except in those counties regulated by private acts.

DEER (gun- archery) — Third Saturday in November, limit varies with the unit.

Royals efforts are criticized

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There were indications today of strained feelings between Manager Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals and the Royals front office over the club's efforts to secure new players.

McKeon, in Baltimore, criticized the Royals' front office for not being more aggressive in attempting to acquire such players as Deron Johnson, Jim Ray Hart and Sam McDowell.

McKeon leveled the criticism after the Royals had lost a 6-4 game Tuesday night to the Baltimore Orioles. He said the Royals, in effect, were standing still while other American League clubs were getting new players.

"When I say I'm hacked off we haven't be able to make a trade," McKeon said, "that is exactly what I mean — we. That includes me. I'm not trying to blame anybody. I'm just trying to get the man who will help us."

"After a losing game, a manager may say things that he will regret later," said General Manager Cedric Tallis. "I hope this is what happened in the case of Jac.

"It's a free country and Jack can say whatever he wants to say but whether or not he's right is another matter. I think that Jack, being a first year manager, is overanxious. He would like to win, and so would I.

"It would have been possible for us to get Hart last year but there was no designated hitter rule then. Hart had a bad record with his knee and all. He still doesn't move well. We sent a scout to see him and did not get a favorable report. This season we did not have a chance to get him.

"We were not aware that McDowell was available. I'm not sure whether McDowell was offered to anyone other than the Yankees. We tried to get Pat Dobson from Atlanta but we couldn't get waivers on one of our players.

"We knew the Yankees were trying to deal Mike Kekich but we felt Kekich had been to the well once to often and had been found wanting."

The New York Yankees obtained Hart, McDowell and Dobson. Kekich was traded by the Yankees several days ago to Cleveland.

Tallis said he did not think McKeon's criticism would "necessarily create an awkward situation in our organization. If the situation had been reversed, if I had been criticizing Jack, then I feel it would be an awkward situation. I look on it as something said in the heat of battle. I'm just going to say that Jack was upset and let it go at that."

Prelims begin in AAU track

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Marty Liquori has run just four races all year. But he rates as a co-favorite with Steve Prefontaine in the mile race at the 85th National AAU championships beginning tonight at Memorial Stadium.

The mile, traditionally the feature event, stands out, but not by much, over the halfmile.

Liquori was the public address announcer for the International Track Association this year and began his training late. He ran a 3:57.8 mile in his first race, then ran a 1:51.0 half-mile and added a 3:58.7 mile.

It is uncertain whether Liquori and Prefontaine will hook up in the same heat, because meet officials have not yet drawn for the heats. But both will be favored to advance to Saturday night's final.

Blaylock signs

MALDEN — Gary Blaylock, Jr., former Malden High School and Union University, Jackson baseball star, has signed a contract with the New York Mets organization. An 11th round draft choice of the Mets, young Blaylock was signed by Buddy Lewis, a Mets scout.

The formal signing of the contract was held at the Blaylock residence. Gary's father, Gary Blaylock Sr., was signed by the same Buddy Lewis to a St. Louis Cardinal contract back in 1949.

Gary Sr. pitched in the major leagues for the Cardinals and later for the New York Yankees. He is now a farm club manager and scout for the Kansas City Royals' organization.

Blaylock has played baseball for the past three years at Union University, Jackson, Tenn. He just finished the current college season with a .350 batting average and a new school record of 36 home runs compiled over a three year period. The old Union record was 26 homers.

Playing first base, Blaylock blasted three roundtrippers in one game while playing in an NAIA tournament. He ranked first in the Mid- South area for home runs this year and second in the nation for home runs for a small college.

Shortly after signing his contract, Blaylock left for St. Petersburg, Fla., where the two rookie clubs of Marion, Va., and Batavia, N. Y. will be formed.

Phillips resigns

Jack Phillips, head football coach of the Malden Green Waves, has resigned to accept the same position at Westview High School in Weakley County, Tenn. Westview is a new established school just three years old and is three miles from Martin.

Coach Phillips takes an impressive record to a school whose record last year was won-1; tied-1; and lost- 8.

He played college football at the University of Tennessee at Martin and to both he and Mrs. Phillips, this was like going home.

NHL hall of fame

MONTREAL (AP) — Doug Harvey, an All-Star 13 times in his colorful National Hockey League career, was one of five men selected Wednesday for induction into the Hockey Hall of Fame.

Also named to the Hall by the selection committee were Chuck Rayner, a goalie who won the Hart Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player in 1949-50; the late Tommy Smith, who played with seven clubs from 1906 through 1920; Frank Udvari, a former referee who now is the NHL's supervisor of officials, and Hartland de M. Molson, a former owner of the Montreal Canadiens.

Harvey, Rayner and Smith were named as players, Udvari and Molson in the category of builders. The announcement came during the annual NHL meetings here.

The five will be formally inducted in ceremonies to be held at the Hall in Toronto in August.

Crenshaw no. one amateur

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Maybe it's the exuberance of youth, but amateur Ben Crenshaw is one of the few players who appears unawed by the super tough greens at Oakmont Country Club.

The 21-year-old Crenshaw was considered the No. 1 amateur contender in the 73rd U.S. Open, which began today. The blond University of Texas golfer was the low amateur in this year's Masters, finishing in a tie for 24th.

During the three days of practice over the 6,921-yard Oakmont course, there were loud cries of anguish over the putting surfaces. But Crenshaw can't understand what all the excitement is about. He hasn't had any problem with the greens.

"I'll putt the greens well," said the confident Crenshaw, a two-time National Collegiate Athletic Association champion and runner-up in last year's National Amateur. "I like 'em. Sure, you have to be careful that you don't put the ball in places where you can't do anything but three putt. The greens are true if you get within range."

Royals take win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rich Coggins of Baltimore made two crucial mistakes as the Orioles dropped a 2-0 decision to Kansas City, but Manager Earl Weaver was far from critical of the young outfielder.

"People in Baltimore are spoiled," Weaver said after Wednesday night's game. "They don't see that very often."

Coggins misplayed the winning two-run double by Kansas City's Lou Piniella with two outs in the eighth inning, and his base running cost the Orioles at least one run in the third.

"Heck, kids are going to make mistakes," Weaver said. "Veterans make mistakes. You can't play all year without them."

Coggins hesitated before retreating on Piniella's hit, and then turned the wrong way before the slicing drive fell just out of reach and bounced off the right field fence.

The hit pinned the defeat on Dave McNally, whose 5-8 record includes four setbacks in which the Orioles have been shut out and two other losses in extra innings.

Coggins, always a center fielder before joining the Orioles last season, is still having difficulty in adjusting to the slices encountered in right.

In the third, Al Bumbry and Coggins opened with singles but Coggins was out trying to advance on the throw toward third base.

"I hesitated because I didn't think they'd try to get Bumbry," Coggins said. "After that, I should have gone back to first. But after the ball went over the cutoff man, I tried to make it."

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Editor:

I note in the "Standard" of June 7th, that Mr. W. T. Woods is back again on the attack of any and all who do not agree with him 100%.

He says I havy insulted him. I find this hard to understand as all I did was express the opinion that Mr. Woods is not completely omnipotent. Due to this shortcoming of Mr. Woods and his tendency to castigate any and all who disagree with him, I merely stated the location of the pain Mr. Woods gave me. (I still have the pain, same place.) From this mere statement Mr. Woods reads the message of a "cry for help" -- "a problem". He even goes on to comment on the size of the pain area. Mr. Woods further states "I cannot give executive clemency" -- I hadn't asked for "executive clemency".

Mr. Woods has repeatedly castigated the intelligence, morals, and all other facets of life and performances of Mr. Bond, Mississippi County's prosecuting attorney, and others. This apparently to his is perfectly legitimate because these too, do not see all things through Mr. Woods prejudicial view. Mr. Woods is an "elitist" -- one who likes to dish it out, but who cannot take it.

This is all I'm going to have to say on the subject, except to thank Mr. Woods for mentioning my firm name and location. I appreciate the advertising plug. Thank you.

Yours truly,
Norman Harpe

Dear Mr. Charlie:

A Daily Standard reader thought you might like to have the enclosed for publication on Flag Day, June 14.

"I AM YOUR FLAG"
By Thomas E. Wicks, Sr.
Past Commander, 11th District
Dept. of Mo.,
The American Legion

I am your Flag.
I was born on June 14, 1777.

I am more than just cloth shaped into a design.

I am the refuge of the world's oppressed people.

I am the silent sentinel of Freedom.

I am the emblem of the greatest sovereign nation on earth.

I am the inspiration for which American Patriots gave their lives and fortunes.

I have led your sons into battle from Valley Forge to the bloody ridges of Korea.

I walk in silence with each of your Honored Dead, to their final resting place beneath the silent white crosses, row upon row.

I have flown through Peace and War, Strife and Prosperity, and amidst it all I have been respected.

My red stripes -- symbolize the blood spilled in defense of this glorious nation.

My white stripes -- signify the burning tears shed by Americans who lost their sons.

My blue field -- is indicative of God's heaven under which I fly.

My stars -- clustered together unify 50 states as one, for God and Country.

"Old Glory" is my nickname, and proudly I wave on high.

Honor me, respect me, defend me with your lives and your fortunes.

Never let my enemies tear me down from my lofty position, lest I never return.

Keep alight the fires of patriotism, strive earnestly for the spirit of democracy.

Worship Eternal God and keep His commandments, and I shall reamain the bulwark of peace and freedom for all mankind.

Dear Editor,

On Monday, June 11, you ran an article in your paper concerning an Anti-Drink group. The article stated that the Citizens Information Committee choose three of our prominent citizens (all of whom are pastors of local churches) to head a steering committee in an effort to defeat liquor by the drink.

I for one do not believe liquor by the drink will help our community in any way, and I think the gentlemen are doing a fine job in stating their convictions in the newspaper. I wish them complete success in their effort.

What I would like to know is where was this Citizens Information Committee when the laws on abortion were being passed. I saw nothing in the local paper from the Information Committee.

If we are going to yell about something together, then why not start with the murdering of our unborn infants. Or perhaps we are like some of our legislators, we still have mixed feelings about it.

The number of infants being killed is getting larger everyday. Yet we people as a group close our eyes and are silent and act as if nothing is happening.

If you want to really be concerned about our community find out how many of our future citizens are being slaughtered before they have a chance to live. I say fight for something worth while. Fight for Life.

Yours truly,
Clem Scheffer Jr.

HARMFUL HEARINGS?

THE ISSUE: Prosecutor Archibald Cox's request for termination of the Watergate hearings.

Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox is reported to have asked that the Ervin committee call off its Watergate hearings. Cox, so the report goes, got turned down cold by committee counsel Samuel Dash.

Even so, we think Cox is right. The Watergate hearings ought to be terminated; they have the potential of doing more harm to the nation than good.

The prosecutor reasons that the ongoing hearings are apt to make his job harder for him. By securing limited immunity for key witnesses like John W. Dean and Jeb Stuart Magruder, the committee forecloses the chance that Cox can prosecute those witnesses on any charge he thinks warranted.

Of course, immunity is an old stratagem of prosecutors themselves. Get one witness who will sing, and you may round up a whole flock of canaries. But the Ervin committee is acting independently of the judicial process. Sen. Ervin, not prosecutor Cox, is determining who shall have immunity, and in the face of what charges.

Another difficulty for Cox is assuring "the Watergate 500" (as they are jocularly being called in Washington) a fair trial. So much evidence has been adduced already during the committee hearings that the resulting publicity could provide any convicted defendant the right of appeal. He could claim he had been tried already in the press and before the Ervin committee.

But there is another, more subjective reason why the hearings may be doing more harm than good. Allegations, charges, counter- charges swarm and buzz before the committee like angry mosquitoes. Numerous men in public life have already been bitten. But did they deserve it? None can say with certainty. At many points, sworn testimony clashes against sworn testimony, and there is no way of telling who is right. Hearsay evidence — inadmissible in a court of law — is presented, and everyone listens attentively.

Meanwhile, the public is confused, perplexed, uncertain. the hearings drag on Robert Odle, James McCord, Bernard Barker, Alfred Baldwin, Gerald Alch: They have all spoken their pieces, but the protagonists in this drama — Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean, Mitchell — are a long way yet from being called. They could clear up much if they were called immediately; they will not be, however.

The net effect of the hearings, then, is to create public unease. That is why it is hard not to sympathize with those of our countrymen — they may, by now, be a majority — who simply are tuning Watergate out.

Ultimately, of course, Watergate has to be dealt with. The truth, however ugly, however damaging, has got to come out. But that is what courts are for. In court, the evidence flows in an orderly, procedural manner; no speculation, no hearsay is permitted; just the facts, ma'am.

It is the facts we need now — not the rumors, the hypotheses, and the neuroses, that the Ervin investigating committee currently is giving us.

FELIX R. McKNIGHT

Where is the law?

One of the worrisome offshoots of Watergate is the casual flouting of the law that daily goes on in the breathless quest for headlines and spicy televison lines for the Senate show.

Lost, somewhere, is the valid and venerable rule that holds grand jury proceedings to be secret. Grand jurors and court officials swear with upraised hand to uphold the privacy of investigative evidence prior to indictment, or no- billing.

But with amazing consistency we now get juicy previews of these proceedings, notably in the Washington Post and New York Times. The competitive duel between the two Eastern publications is all being carried out in the name of "the people's right to know," or something of that nature.

Anonymous "sources" continue to spill these secrets and the prospect of a fair trial for defendants becomes increasingly dim.

In Texas, a few folks would be sitting out contempt sentences in a jail cell if this rupture of law was committed. The first leak would be the last — both in federal and state courts. It is not only contempt of court, it also happens to be a penal code violation.

District Atty. Henry Wade advises that the state penalty for leaking a grand jury secret is a fine from $100 to $1,000 or a jail sentence up to six months. The Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure provide for a fine or imprisonment at the court's discretion.

It is naked nose- thumbing of the law; certainly of a system that guarantees innocence until proven guilty by a jury of peers or a court of law.

This same looseness applies to the Senate hearing where the rules of evidence seem to be floating in limbo from witness to witness.

Chairman Sam Ervin and other committee members frequently assure that no one is on trial and evidentiary rules do not apply as in a court of law. But, in just "looking for information" there has been a bundle of hearsay and extraneous talk from those sworn witnesses that courts would not permit.

Now comes special prosecutor Archibald cox, to ask that the Senate hearings be discontinued on the valid grounds that all of the televised testimony before the committee will imperil future trials of Watergate defendants. He is eminently correct, and why the matter hasn't surfaced before is a mystery. The Senate select committee will balk, The show must go on.

One of the recent headlines to flare from leaks states that Watergate prosecutors feel there is "justification" for calling President Nixon to answer questions before the federal grand jury investigating the case — all this, of course, "according to reliable government sources."

Obviously, the only "reliable government sources" with such information have to be those who have heard secret grand jury testimony. White House press secretary Ron Ziegler seemed justified in retorting:

"It reflects a shocking and irresponsible abuse of authority on the part of the prosecutors . . . grand jury proceedings are by law secret."

So it appears that these "reliable government sources," aware that the Constitution probably precludes calling an incumbent President before a grand jury, must settle by getting in their whacks in the Washington Post.

The unanswered question to all this is — why hasn't a federal court done something about these illegal leaks?

President Nixon, the clay pigeon in this affair, has directed new Attorney General Elliott Richardson and special Watergate prosecutor-investigator Archibald Cox to diligently pursue the trail to the source of the leaks.

The guilty of Watergate should be given proper punishment for burglary, invasion and perjury — in due process. But the shooting license issued to anonymous grand jury sources should be suspended. It is inimical to the country. —THE EDITOR

When the land is covered with ice and snow, an Eskimo hunter travels from one hunting ground to another. Eskimos measure time by igloos- one igloo representing one night. These igloos take about two hours to build. Starting with a circle, (10 blocks) and building from within, one block is placed at a time in rings on top, until the final block is on top. The hunter's wife usually chinks up the cracks inside with powdered snow. The last job is to make a wind tunnel to shield the doorway. The inside is lit by a soapstone lamp which burns seal oil.

The Miracle water refiner is carefully built from raw material to the totally engineered product for your home. Only the best material available is used. Scramble on to be first with cotton

50 years ago
June 14, 1923

A residence owned by Theo. Slack and occupied by Lon Elkins and family near the west mill of the Scott County Milling Co., was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The family barely escaped with their lives.

Born to Dr. and Mrs. W.A. Anthony on June 8th, a daughter.

Tom Baty, who for several years was employed as salesman by the Sikeston Mercantile Co., resigned his position there last week and on Monday began work for The Scott County Milling Co., in charge of the farmer settlement department.

Dr. F.B. Blanton has added some new fixtures to the operating room of his dental parlors this week, adding both to the appearance and convenience of the room.

June 14, 1933

Martha W. Warren, pioneer resident of Cape Girardeau County, who in recent years had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. C.F. McMullin, died June 11, after an illness of about 10 days.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday for Fred Bray, who fell Friday while painting at the Simpson Colonail Tavern on Highway 61, near Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Matilda Holland, for many years a resident of Sikeston, died in the Odd Fellows Home, Liberty, Mo., Sunday, according to word received here today.

The annual scramble for first honors in the cotton game around Sikeston is on with one claimant on file for top honors. He is Harrison Darter, farming on the W.B. Simpson land, north of Sikeston, who stated Friday that a few cotton squares were already forming on his acreage.

Mrs. Bert Gentry entertained at her home Monday with a brithday party for her daughter, Anne, in celebration of her ninth birth anniversary.

Harold Bean, who acquired ownership of the Rustic Rock Inn on Highway 61, the first of June, is now operating the business.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dumey Sunday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape. The child has been named Kenneth Michael. Mr. Dumey is employed at Juneau, Alaska.

Jimmy Keasler celebrated his ninth birthday Thursday by inviting a group of friends to a swim party, afterward taking them to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Keasler, for refreshments.

Paul Marion Jones, 48 years of age, died Sunday in the St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau, where he had been taken following a stroke suffered that morning.

20 years ago
June 14, 1953

Mr. and Mrs. Linn Smith, 188 Tanner, are parents of a baby boy born on the 15th at St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau. He is the second child and son of the Smiths. His brother is Richard Linn, three years old. Dr. H.L. Smith, Sikeston, and Mr. and Mrs. T.G. Richey of Lilbourn are the grandparents.

In the Round Robin match played at Malden yesterday the Sikeston club swingers were almost white washed to the tune of 44 to 14. A highlight of the match was the playing of Kenny Vinson, who went around the course with one arm in a cast but played a good game swinging one-handed.

Robert Foster of Sikeston has leased the Russell Hotel in Charleston from Mrs. James Adams and George Marable, it was reported here today. He will take over operation of the hotel July 1 and change the name to The Charleston Hotel.

Dr. Handy L. Smith was elected third vice president of the Missouri State Dental Society in Kansas at a recent meeting.

Former Michigan State football coach Duffy Daughtery is now special assistant to MSU's vice president for development, Les Scott. Duffy will also be on TV next fall with ABC college football games, working with Chris Schenkel and Bud Wilkinson.

The Prayer
from the upper room

Joseph, a Levite born in Cyprus, whom the apostles called Barnabas [which means "One who Encourages"] sold a field he owned, bought the money, and turned it over to the apostles.

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank You for those who have encouraged us with faith and love. Give us the spirit and encouragement for the discouraged. In the name of our blessed Lord. Amen.

Justice Department files antitrust suit against Tesaco, Inc. and Costal State Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has moved to block what it says are illegal agreements between the nation's No. 1 petroleum refiner and its No. 1 independent source of gasoline and heating oil.

An agreement between Texaco Inc. and Coastal States Gas Producing Co. of Corpus Christi, Tex., restrains the sale of gasoline to independents, Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper said Tuesday in announcing a civil antitrust suit against the two corporations.

Announcement of the suit came a few hours after release of a national survey of major and independent gasoline service stations showed an increasing number were reducing operating hours for personnel reasons or short gasoline supplies.

Several congressmen have asserted that some 2,000 stations, mostly independents, have closed because of inadequate gasoline supplies.

Elsewhere in Washington Tuesday, two hearings on a reported gasoline shortage progressed as the White House announced that it expected to have the government's plans to conserve energy ready within a week or 10 days.

The survey was the second in a weekly series conducted by the American Automobile Association following what it says are conflicting "scare stories" about the amount of fuel available to motorists.

This week's survey of 1,989 stations along major travel routes in all states except Alabama and Alaska showed that 32 per cent of them are open fewer hours during the week and on weekends, when many are closing one or both days.

Seven per cent of stations checked are limiting gasoline purchases, matching the first week's survey of 1,439 stations.

The AAA said 64 per cent of the stations checked by local AAA branches were operating normally. That was down from the 75 per cent last week.

Less than half of one per cent were closed, the AAA said.

Texaco, the suit said, "with one exception, maintains a policy not to sell gasoline to independent marketers." Texaco's purchase of the Coastal refinery and the other agreements, the complaint alleges, would cut off a substantial source of supply, primarily to independents; eliminate competition between the two in making and selling No. 2 oil; lessen independents' price competition; eliminate Coastal as a substantial factor in refining and selling gasoline and No. 2 oil; erect barriers to newcomers to the oil industry and substantially increase the concentration of the refining and marketing business.

In New York, a spokesman for Texaco issued a statement defending the agreements and saying they were entered into "to make available to the consuming public additional supplies of petroleum products." Texaco said that under the agreements it buys only 11 per cent of Coastal States' capacity, and that this will increase to 37 per cent by the end of the year.

A spokesman for Coastal States said in Houston: "The company views the contracts with Texaco as fully valid and proper ...."

Summaries of the AA finding by region included:

Southwest

Of 181 stations in New Mexico, Texas., Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, 64 per cent had normal operations, 34 per cent were limiting hours and 6 per cent were allocating. A 100 per cent or greater increase in the percentage of stations limiting hours and-or allocating was reported, from 17 per cent to 34 per cent in limiting hours and from 2 to 6 per cent in limiting amounts.

Midwest

Of 99 stations in Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, 58 per cent had normal operations, with 39 per cent limiting hours and nine per cent allocating. Conditions were "very spotty," with both cutbacks and oversupply reported. This region has been tagged by the Office of Emergency Preparedness as the most vulnerable to any gasoline shortage, "possibly next month."

New England

Of 111 stations, 64 per cent had normal operations, with 31 per cent limiting their hours and 12 per cent allocating gasoline. More early closings were experienced than last week, but supplies were said to be good.

New York-New Jersey

Of 168 stations, 81 per cent had normal operations, 16 per cent were limiting hours and 5 per cent were allocating. Spot shortages of low-lead gasoline were reported. Some dealers reported being allowed to draw against the next month's quota: "If the shortages is real, this development could exacerbate July supply problems, making it the showdown month."

Middle Atlantic

Of 293 stations in Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia 68 per cent had normal operations, 24 per cent were limiting hours and 5 per cent were allocating. This region "remains better than the nation over-all, and prices remain generally stable."

Of 375 stations from Kentucky to Mississippi to Florida, 60 per cent had normal operations,

What's the law?

The case of the unlucky number

By Jack Struass, LL.B.

Wilbur found trying to earn a living honestly quite a trial. When he tried to earn a living dishonestly, he found it even more of a trial. He was picked up by the police for his illegal activities and was required to stand trial for three sweltering days while a jury listened to the evidence against him.

Instead of a verdict, however, all the trial produced was confusion. It seemed that 13 votes were cast by the jury instead of the usual 12. The reason? Someone had carelessly permitted an alternate juror into the locked jury room and he had cast the extra vote.

Without ado, the extra juror was bounced out of the jury room and the remaining jurors proceeded to find Wilbur guilty of the crimes charged.

"Now just one little old minute," protested Wilbur. "Thirteen is my unlucky number. Since the law says that a man is to be tried by a jury of 12, by permitting an extra person in the jury room to deliberate on my fate was in violation of my rights. Consequently, I demand a new trial."

"Only 12 jurors did decide his fate," responded the district attorney. "And as a matter of fact, until the 13th juror was discovered and ejected from the jury room, he was fighting tooth and nail for Wilbur's acquital. Therefore, Wilbur has nothing to complain about. He received more than a fair trial."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant superstitious Wilbur a new trial?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a defendant is entitled by law to have his case determined by 12 jurors and no more.

Flash flood causes accident

BLOOMFIELD — A Bloomfield youth was injured in a traffic accident at 7:25 p.m. Tuesday when flash flooding produced by heavy rain covered Route D three miles east of Bloomfield.

The highway patrol investigated and said the accident occurred when Gary David Lilly, 18, of Bloomfield came upon the water across the highway, applied his brakes, skidded into the water and overturned.

Injured was a passenger, Randal Hutchinson, 18, of Bloomfield. He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital for treatment of a severe back cut.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, June 14, the 165th day of 1973. There are 200 days left in the year. This is Flag Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, the U.S. Army was founded as the Continental Congress authorized the recruiting of 10 companies of riflemen.

On this date:

In 1777, the Continental Congress made the Stars and Stripes the national flag.

In 1800, forces under Napoleon Bonaparte defeated the Austrians at the Battle of Marengo and reconquered Italy.

In 1846, a group of settlers at Sonoma, Calif., proclaimed the Free Republic of California.

In 1922, President Warren G. Harding became the first president to make a radio speech, broadcasting over station WEA in Baltimore.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor
c/o Mailbox
Sikeston Standard:

June 12, 1973

Dear Editor Charles:

I'm enclosing a letter from our former Pastor at 1st Baptist Church that I think and so do many others think it should be published for general public to read. You did run a couple articles on this controversy in your paper and a feature article on Rev. Hackney's ouster.

Well this article tells more concerning this Baptist controversy on the auditing of convention funds which news releases have failed to tell. Would you please print it in "The Mailbox". Rev. Hackney gave permission to have it printed.

The general public also need to know that a group of "Concerned Baptist", composed of Laymen, Ministers, and Baptist women are pursuing this for further investigation and audit — Thanks — It's a letter to all Board Members and Baptist Leaders:

John W. Davis
P.O. Box 115
one of the group
of concerned

the letter is attached below.

May 29, 1973

Dear Fellow Board Members,

Much has been written and said recently relative to problems within our Convention, particularly those problems relating to Dr. Harding and the Executive Office.

You have heard by this time concerning my ouster as Chairman of the Executive Committee and you have received a report of the Executive Committee (11 pages long) dated May 21, 1973.

The report from the Executive Committee does in no way clear up the problems which exist. There still remains unaccountable and unaudited funds, Dr. Harding's house financed with interest free money, ($62,500 of Missouri Baptist money) which was never reported to the Board, and many other problems related to staff morale and the spirit in our Convention across the State. We have been habitually behind with our Cooperative Program gifts from Jefferson City to Nashville, with a check arriving on May 10th in Nashville dated March 30th.

Frankly, I don't think that we as Board members want to ignore these problems. It is just simply a matter of facing them. I have had to make the choice between "loyalty and integrity." I have been loyal to Dr. Harding and the State office for 19 years. I have served on many committees and boards and have defended Dr. Harding on many issues. But I had to come to the "moment of truth" after getting the facts and documented evidence. I continue to remain a loyal Missouri Baptist but my conscience will no longer permit me to tolerate our present administrative policies and procedures. I say this as a prayerful and a concerned Baptist.

I am not the only one who has raised questions. The recent report which you received would give that impression. Please contact Dan Bryson of Clinton, James Joslin of Springfield, Richard Wallis of Kansas City, Homer DeLozier of St. Louis, Nelson Duke of Jefferson City, and Arthur Mallory of Jefferson City. Four of these men are on the Executive Committee and two of them are Convention officers. Bryson, Joslin, Wallis and Mallory (the Executive Committee members) voted against my ouster as Committee Chairman. Dr. DeLozier and Duke had no vote but I know how they would have voted.

I still have faith in the integrity of Missouri Baptists. God has blessed us and will continue to do so, contingent upon our willingness to face truth and act accordingly.

The Executive Board has great fiscal and moral responsibility. Our people are counting upon us.

You may want to contact our auditor, Mr. Ernest Wolfe of Jefferson City. To a few of us in January he stated that Missouri Baptists are on a bankruptcy course. We owe more than $1,000,000 to the Building Fund. We are now deficit spending every month, leaving our books open the first ten days of each month just to try and "catch up." Believe me, this is serious!

God bless you as you pray, further investigate and act. Time is of the essence on this matter.

I hope this letter sounds blunt but not bitter, concerned but not crude, anxious but not anti- everything. This is my intent.

Concerned fellow
board member,
James W. Hackney

Dear Editor:

In the attempt by Missouri legislators to understand the budgeting procedures and expenses of the University of Missouri, one highly unfortunate criticism of the University has been made. We refer to the question of the services offered the approximately 21 persons with the title of Professor Emeritus. Persons with this title are those senior professors with long and distinguished records at the University who have reached between age 65 and 70 and been retired. - As a small compensation for their outstanding services, the University provides them with an office, often a cubby- hole, and the use of secretarial help when needed. Many of these professors do not avail themselves of these services, for they move away or turn to other activities or prefer to work in their studies at home.

But those who do remain on are active, productive scholars who just happen to be 65 years or older. From the outside, it might appear that these professors are free-loading on tax money and obtaining services for which they render nothing. But the story from inside the University is substantially another matter.

Here are a few of the benefits which the University of Missouri receives from the active Emeritus Professors. Their extensive personal libraries are often used to loan books to students who cannot find them at the library, a courtesy done with kindness and generosity. They serve on dissertation committees, and sometimes direct dissertations. (In fact, one of the many difficulties of the newly-proposed doctoral faculty selection procedures may be that these professors will be prevented from acting on or directing dissertations of students when they may be the most qualified person among the professors in the field of the student.) They write or co-write with junior faculty, books for which the University receives credit and status, something which this University is badly in need of at this time. They direct on-going research for which they have obtained funds, grants from which the University receives a generous over- head payment, at times often in excess of the annual retirement salary which the professor receives. They may lecture and teach, not on the full- time level of the non- retired professors, but nevertheless on a fairly regular basis.

They teach special courses, they will lecture on a specific topic in another person's class, and they help out when others are ill or away. They are available for consultation by both students and younger faculty colleagues. They make contact for younger faculty in Federal and State bureaucracies granting funds for research. They do research of value to the society. They participate in community activities of value to us all, but most certainly to the enhancement of the status of the University. And, finally, they write innumerable letters of recommendation concerning both former and present students, one of the reasons why secretarial help is granted.

In the Department of Sociology where one of the undersigned is appointed, there are two Professors Emeritus who keep regular office hours and participate actively in the scholarly business of the University. One has a research proposal at the present time which has been approved and will presumably be funded when the money appropriated is released. The other has published two books this year, one in collaboration with a young assistant professor. Both have been directing dissertations, sitting on dissertation committees and consulting and teaching since their retirement. How shortsighted to suggest that their office space and secretarial help be denied! They are worth their weight in gold to young students, to other faculty members, to the University and to the citizens of Missouri.

Also unfortunate is the comparison of Professors Emereti with retired Army officers. While it may be true that such officers do not get minimum office space and incidental secretarial help, their retirement benefits, financial and medical, far outdistance those of retired professors who have never received subsistence and family allowances, clothing allowances, full medical and dental care for themselves and family, large discounts on post exchanges, cheaper insurance, elaborate club facilities, moving expenses, full pay on leave, earlier retirements at higher income, continued medical benefits including hospitalization throughout retired life, all of which directly or indirectly have cost the citizens billions of dollars and made for the most powerful interest group in the nation. The retired university professor finds inflation eating away at his retirement allowance, which is not tied to a cost- of- living escalation arrangement, and his widow, who receives a reduced share is left with an income that, without supplement, will hardly see her through to the end of her days. Rather than crabbing about the minuscule cost of rendering a few benefits (which return a harvest of post-retirement services to the university) the legislators should look at the REAL problem of retired faculty, their shrinking retirement dollars.

Sincerely yours,
Ellen H. Biddle,
Research Associate
Robert w. Habenstein,
Professor of Sociology

Dear Editor:

The only reason the world accepted our U.S. paper dollar for years is because it was" ... as good as gold." It was backed by gold! But now our "great" monetary experts have given most of our gold away for foreign aid and dozens of other pet Congressional projects. The dollar has become just another "piece of paper." It isn't backed by anything except impossible promises to pay. As a result the income and savings of thrifty Senior Citizens are being embezzled and destroyed.

There is lots of big talk about the energy crisis and how in 10 or 12 years we will be obliged to pay the Arabs maybe $30 Billion a year for oil. Pay with what? The Arabs don't just want fiat paper money, and rightly so. If we don't have gold or gold backed redeemable paper dollars, we "ain't" going to buy any Arab oil. U.S. irredeemable paper money isn't going to buy oil or anything else 10 or 12 years from now if Congress and the Administration keep spending beyond income – and I doubt they will stop.

If you don't think inflation is dangerous and a steak costs too much now, please consider what a steak would have cost at the end of the German inflation when it took 42 billion marks (formerly valued at 24 cents each) to buy one U.S. penny. Frightening but true!

Sincerely,
C.C. Moseley, President

Dear Sir:

Something has come on the legislative scene that I feel is worth telling about; simply because it all sounds so inocuous especially since it is in connection with all this ecology bit.

The latest horror being considered, as per the NEW YORK TIMES a few Sundays ago is a report headed by Laurance Rockefeller that cites as of "major importance" the concept "that henceforth 'development rights' on private property must be regarded as being vested in the community and its well- being rather than in the fact of ownership." It "urged regulation of development in a degree at odds with traditional commercial practices." This, I understand, is all incorporated in a "land use planning" bill.

A few years ago, a teenager made it into TIME magazine when his dad was fined because his tree house didn't meet the local building code. Wait until someone makes the media by being fined for planting parsley without a permit! If people don't want the government in their backyards, a letter to their Congressmen might help.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Harry Bock

Howard Schnellenberger, new coach of the Baltimore Colts, won't have a shot at his former Miami club until the second half of the season. His Colts appear in the Orange Bowl Nov. 11, and the Dolphins return the compliment in Baltimore Dec. 9.
